ATTU GENERAL GIVES ACCOUNT OF FIGHTING

Maj. Gen. Landrum Determined To Give No Rest Until Final Victory.

By The Associated Press

MAJ. GEN. LANDRUM'S HDQTRS., MASSACRE PASS, ATTU, May [illegible] (Delayed)—"The Jap force [illegible] given no time to recoup. [illegible] pressure will be exerted [illegible] drive or destroy him."

Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum [illegible], Fla., commanding [illegible] the ground forces on [illegible] used a stove poker viciously [illegible] the ground in his tent as he [illegible].

As for, after eight days of fighting, one Japanese prisoner [illegible] taken.

The situation on Attu, he added at [illegible] time has been more encouraging.

"Our troops forced their way [illegible] Massacre pass last night. [illegible]s have made contact between Holtz bay and Massacre—the principal Jap force is now [illegible] in at Chicahagof valley and the Massacre corridor leading to it."

Weapons Abandoned

At Holtz, the Japanese left heavy 40 mm batteries. Two were repaired quickly and turned against the enemy.

In the hillsides along Massacre pass, they abandoned machine-gun, food stores and ammunition stores with reckless abandon, General Landrum said.

While he was talking, one could hear the occasional bark of a sniper's rifle and the reverberations of enemy cannon fire echoing through the high corridors.

"Our casualties," said the general, "were not excessive." However, "the casualties resulting from exposure—due to cold water and temperature—have been quite a few. These are recovering rapidly and will be back to duty soon."

Navy Plays Part

Of the navy, General Landrum said: "I am deeply grateful for their wholehearted and splendid assistance."

"Although the weather was poor," the general said, "and prevented the full exploitation of the power of that arm, aviators gave splendid assistance. Their missions were skillfully and courageously flown."

General Landrum had little to say about the scout and reconnaissance party which climbed over the 3,000-foot ridge to join the Holtz bay force. He said: "What I would have to report about them is hearsay. I understand the casualties were high, mostly exposure."

He added: "The climb was a terrible ordeal."

The Massacre pass progress was retarded initially by small enemy groups dug into the hills where their automatic weapons could bear on our forces.

"We had to take them out by fire and movement."

It Took 2 Wounds To Stop Sergeant

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, May 29—Sgt. Forrest Wright Johnson is bed-ridden proof that enemy snipers have to shoot both legs out from under a good sergeant to keep him down.

The former Flat River, Mo., machinist, a regular army veteran of seven years, was one of eight casualties from the Attu fighting who arrived yesterday at a Pacific northwest army hospital. He was one of five wounded. The other three were sickness cases.

Officers at the base said they believed the men were the first Attu casualties to be brought south from the fog-cloaked Aleutians. Most of them never even had a chance to see a Japanese. There was too much fog.

Johnson was wounded in the foot by a sniper's shot, but kept on fighting until a shot in the chest downed him. He found later that another bullet had meat-

The first of St. Mary High school commencement programs will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. when the annual homage to the Blessed Virgin the crowning of the statue of the Virgin will be observed. Rev. Damien Zimmerman will give a sermon with the "Blessed Virgin's Influence on Civilization" as the theme. The program will be followed by benediction.

Marion and Bucyrus Fliers Among New Pilots Graduated in Texas

Lt. Kemmerly Lt. Sanzo Lt. Midlam Lt. Greene

Three Marion county men and one Bucyrus man received the silver wings of an United States Army air corps pilot and were commissioned second lieutenants as commencement exercises were held at the air force's 10 advanced Gulf Coast training centers Monday.

The Marion county men are Lt. Ralph Richard Kemmerly, son of Mrs. Charles Cronly of Dayton and Ralph Kemmerly of 190 North Seffner avenue; Lt. Roy F. Greene, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Greene of 626 North Prospect street; and Lt. Forrest D. Midlam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Midlam of south of Marion. The Bucyrus man is Lt. Joseph Sanzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sanzo.

The commencement exercises were held simultaneously Monday at 10 airfields located in the gulf states. The graduation marks the completion of 36-weeks of rigorous training. Before active assignment to combat duty, the graduates will receive post-graduate specialized training.

Lt. Kemmerly, a 1939 graduate of Harding High school where he starred as an end in football, is 21 years old. He entered the Army air corps Aug. 26, beginning his training at the San Antonio pre-flight school. His preliminary training was received at Coleman Field, Tex. and his basic at Goodfellow Field, also a Texas training center. From Goodfellow he was transferred for advanced training to Eagle Pass, Tex., where he received his wings and commission. Attending the commencement exercises was Lt. Kemmerly's wife, the former Miss Rhea James of Latourette street. Lt. Kemmerly is expected home on a 10-day leave.

Lt. Greene, well-known throughout the Marion area as an amateur athlete, entered the service June 11, 1941, under selective service. He was inducted at Ft. Hayes in Columbus and was assigned to Ft. Francis E. Warren, Wyo. On April 16 he was appointed an aviation cadet in the Army air corps and began training at the San Antonio, Tex., preflight school four months later. Upon completing pre-flight requirements Lt. Greene was transferred to the Corsicana, Tex., primary training school and from there to Majors Field, Greenville, Tex., for basic training. March 21 he was assigned to Ellington Field, Tex., for advanced training, was graduated from there Monday in a class of 24. Lt. Greene graduated in 1937 from Rawson High school near Findlay. Before entering the service he was employed as an assembly worker at the Universal Cooler Corp. At present he is spending a 10-day leave with his parents.

Lt. Midlam is one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Midlam of south of Marion now in service. The other members of the family now serving the colors are Tech. Corp. Charles Midlam, who is believed to be stationed overseas with a chemical warfare unit; Pfc. Jack Midlam, now in training at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo., as a bombsight technician; and Pvt. Don Midlam, stationed at Greensboro, N. C. Lt. Midlam started his air corps training on June 28 last year. He was first sent to the preflight school at San Antonio and from there to Garner Field, Uvalda, Tex., Randolph Field, San Antonio, Tex., and then to advanced school at Moore Field, from where he graduated. He will spend an eight-day leave here before beginning his new assignment. Mr. and Mrs. Midlam attended the graduation exercises.

Lt. Sanzo, who enlisted in the Army air corps nine months ago, was graduated from Aloe Field, Victoria, Tex. Members of the family said he was expected home for a 10-day leave soon.

Also in the mass graduating class from Gulf Coast training schools was Lt. Jack A. Griffith of Marysville. He was graduated from Aloe Field.

BATTLE RAGES ALONG KUBAN

Bitter Fighting Continues on Land and in Air on Southern Front.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 29—Red army troops were locked in a swaying, bitter struggle to drive the Germans from the lower Kuban today, and land and aerial activity further northward indicated that this first major campaign of the summer may be only the forerunner of several to develop along the long Russian front.

The Soviet midday communique made no reference to the Novorossisk area in the Kuban.

Both the midday and midnight communiques, however, stressed sharp activity in the Smolensk area, almost 700 miles northwest of the major Kuban campaign, and important communications and rail link between German-held Kharkov and Orel sectors and Leningrad.

The midday communique, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, described artillery action, reconnaissance, and heavy guerrilla activity in that important area, and the midnight communique, in addition to describing Russian artillery and reconnaissance activity, told of German attempts to scout the area which were beaten off. German defense positions were demolished by artillery while guerrillas striking

FOUND NOT GUILTY IN WALDO SHEEP CASE

Jury Acquits Brundige as 3-Day Trial Ends.

Joseph Ben Brundige, 30, of near Waldo, charged by the state with stealing 92 head of sheep from the adjacent farm owned by Grover C. Snyder last October, was acquitted early last night by a common pleas court jury of six men and six women.

His trial began Wednesday morning and was completed late yesterday afternoon. The jury deliberated an hour and a half before reaching a verdict.

During yesterday's session Grant E. Mouser Jr., attorney for the defendant, brought before the court 11 witnesses, including eight character witnesses.

Brundige was arrested by sheriff's deputies on Oct. 23 and his brother, Thomas, was arrested the following day. Thomas was also charged with sheep stealing, but Prosecutor James E. Reed indicated he would ask the court to dismiss the charge against Thomas, who is scheduled to be inducted into the Army on June 2.

The Brundige brothers were arrested after it was discovered that the 92 sheep were missing from a flock on the Snyder farm. Sheriff's deputies reported recently that 10 of the Snyder sheep were identified among a group of 154 sheep sold by the Brundige brothers to the Marion Union Stock Yards on Oct. 5. The Brundige brothers said the Snyder sheep had strayed into their flocks.

Tonight's Last Chance To Use 3 Ration Stamps

Three important ration stamps will expire this week-end but since many stores will be closed Monday for a holiday, tonight will be the last opportunity for many shoppers to use them. The stamps expiring are the No. 23 coffee stamp, good for one pound; No. 12 sugar coupon and meat stamps E, F, G and H. The coffee stamp will expire Sunday, the other two Monday.

SHORTCUTS TO SPEED UP WAR EFFORT SOUGHT

Congress Cheered by Choice of Byrnes To Head Home Front Activities.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—Visibly pepped up by President Roosevelt's order placing James F. Byrnes in command of the home front, members of congress hastened today to propose additional moves to cut through the "confusion" many of them said has marked the domestic war effort.

Ranging widely in variety and subjected to immediate controversy, these suggestions included:

1. Passing of compulsory manpower control legislation to "vitalize" this aspect of the far-reaching program outlined for the new office of war mobilization headed by Byrnes.

2. Creation by congress of a separate civilian supply agency having equal claim with the army and navy on resources and materials, and its representation on Byrnes' mobilization committee.

3. Reorganization and consolidation of civilian war agencies, with a 25 per cent reduction in "unnecessary" personnel and the elimination of duplicating efforts.

4. Operation of the mobilization committee—which includes Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Knox, Chairman Harry Hopkins of the munitions assignment board, Chairman Donald Nelson of the war production board, and Judge Fred M. Vinson, who succeeds Byrnes as stabilization director—as an actual war cabinet to resolve disputes without public controversy.

Full Responsibility

Indicating his intention to grapple with some of these problems, Byrnes told a press conference he would have full responsibility over the home front, with power, subject only to Mr. Roosevelt's approval—to formulate policy as well as to direct operations.

He will direct, he said, pro-

Many Roads To Berlin, But None of Them Easy

Retired U. S. Army Officer Points to Problem Ahead of Allies in Invasion of Germany.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—The allied march to Berlin may follow one or more—and preferably more—of 10 roads, none of them easy.

Some of the enormous difficulties to be expected were outlined today by Col. Conrad H. Lanza, retired army officer and one of the country's most noted military students, in an article for the authoritative Field Artillery Journal.

The routes he discusses are these: (1) Norway, (2) Denmark and north Germany, (3) northwest Germany and the Dutch coast east of Texel, (4) the Low Countries south of Texel, (5) north France and Brittany, (6) west France south of the Loire, (7) south France, (8) west side of Italy with Sicily, Sardinia and Corsica, (9) the Adriatic and south Italy, and (10) the Aegean Sea area.

Strong Force Needed

His estimate of the force needed varies from a comparatively limited number for the seizure of southern Norway to "millions of men" for a campaign through northern and central France. And an invasion of the continent will be really effective, he suggests, only as the result of landings in great force at several points.

"It seems clear," Lanza writes, "that in view of the enemy's strength, an invasion involving but a few divisions is not promising.

"Best chance of success appears to be in employing very large forces, at as many different areas as possible, and as nearly simultaneously as practicable. It will be a great and difficult task."

In the cautious fashion of military men, whose plans must envision every risk, Lanza bases his estimates apparently on the assumption of all possible advantage to the enemy, all possible disadvantage to the allies.

Two Questions Unanswered

Two matters which are subjects of wide discussion by observers here he does not mention, perhaps because both are imponderables—the cumulative effect of aerial bombardment on axis production and transport, and the suggestion made in several informed but perhaps wishfully-thinking quarters recently that axis resistance may collapse—not soon—but suddenly.

The latter opinion, voiced openly not long ago by Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts of South Africa, appears to be based on a growing belief that German military leaders are so completely committed to offense by training and experience that they do not understand and cannot wage a successful war of exhaustion, and are likely to risk everything in a final great offensive, probably against Russia.

Speculating on what might happen if Turkey joined the allies, Lanza points out that Istanbul would be "a superb base" for invasion of the Balkans, and passage of the Dardanelles also would make possible landings on the Bulgarian and Roumanian coasts, possibly with the assistance of Russian troops.

McSWEENEY IN ARMY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—John McSweeney, former congressman, state welfare director and unsuccessful candidate for governor a year ago, entered the armed service today as major in the Army's military government branch. He left for Camp Custer, Mich., for training. McSweeney, whose home is in Wooster, served with the 37th division during the first World war, acting as captain in a machine gun company.

Marion County Ready To Observe Memorial Day

Marion Parade and Program One of Six Community Services Arranged in County.

Marion and five other Marion county communities will observe Memorial day with services tomorrow.

Marion city's observance will start with a parade which will form at Central Junior High school and North Prospect street at 1:15 p. m., and will move at 1:30 p. m. east on Center street and south on Main street to the cemetery for a program.

William C. Beer, Bucyrus attorney, will be the principal speaker at services in the Marion cemetery tomorrow, and the Harding High school band will play. Thomas E. Andrews, president of the day, will preside and Rev. Garrigen Roebuck of First United Brethren church will offer the invocation.

John Courtright will read the Declaration of Independence, followed by the reading of Gen. Logan's Order by H. G. Baker. Edward Richmond will present "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address." The American Legion firing squad, with Fred Berg commanding, will give a salute. Robert Boyd will play taps and Howard E. Fogle the echo.

Most of the retail stores in the downtown area, city and county public offices and banks and building and loan associations will be closed Monday, but the postoffice will remain open and delivery of mail will continue as usual.

W. A. Burlingame of the Veterans' hospital in Dayton will give the address at Caledonia Memorial services tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at the Caledonia cemetery. The Caledonia High school band will furnish the music.

Principal speaker for Bush Ridge Memorial day services at Grand Prairie cemetery at 2 p. m. tomorrow will be Rev. Fred L. Rice of the Morral Methodist church.

Judge Hector S. Young will deliver the Memorial day address tomorrow at LaRue services at 2 p. m. at the cemetery. Music will be furnished by the Methodist church choir.

Robert W. Newlon, Columbus attorney and U. S. commissioner for the Columbus district, will be speaker at Prospect services at the cemetery tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. (fast time.) Music will be furnished by Paul B. Gast's band and an accordion band composed of high school girls.

Memorial services in the Green Camp area will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. A short service will be held at Mt. Olive cemetery for the decoration of graves. The parade will then move to the Green Camp cemetery where the main memorial service will be presented.

INVASION NEWS FILLS PAPERS

Press of London Speculates Blow at Axis May Be Imminent.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 29 — Invasion talk dominated headlines today in most of London's newspapers which featured front page stories speculating that an allied blow was imminent.

Military writers had little concrete evidence, but some were spurred by the conclusion of the Roosevelt-Churchill talks in Washington.

Axis reports suggesting major action was a matter of days were carried prominently. One of these reports that landing craft were concentrated in Tunisian, Algerian and Moroccan ports was a favored topic. The Rome radio repeated the story of the landings craft today.

Under the heading, "Navy Is Ready For Biggest Job," the navy correspondent for the News-Chronicle said:

"The greatest naval operation in history is imminent. It will be a landing of an allied army on the continent of Europe. The navy is ready.

Boat Builders Busy

"Boat builders all over the country have for many months been constructing a great number of invasion barges. America already has built many thousands of similar craft. The construction of millions more tons of small naval craft is under way."

The correspondent added that the merchant shipping situation evidently was satisfactory. He said that the index of allied needs for the original North African landings were 2,000,000 tons and that 11,000,000 tons of shipping had been needed since.

The Daily Express played up the combined allied aerial assault on Germany and Italy and front-paged a headline saying: "Next Move? We May Take Pantelleria."

Prominence was given by afternoon newspapers to the Flying Fortress attack yesterday on Leghorn.

The Paris struck while Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was saying in a speech at Portsmouth that "Italy is now wide open to attack."

With the "European fortress" of Hitler's boast facing invasion from many directions, the Daily Mail said:

"Hitler's hesitation in launching his expected offensive against the Russian front indicates something of his present dilemma."

A series of Nazi executions was reported in the restless Balkans—

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR ROAD PROGRAM

Upper Sandusky Firm Gets Job on Bid of $28,079.

On a bid of $28,079.84 the U. S. Construction Co. of Upper Sandusky was awarded a contract for resurfacing of 58.14 miles of Marion county roads, the county commissioners announced today.

Only other bid was for $27,-836.75 by the C. E. Eddington Co. of Tiffin. The commission explained that the contract was awarded to the higher bidder because "unusually satisfactory previous service."

The contract states that work on the countywide project will start by June 15 and must be completed by Aug. 15.

HOLD HOME FRONT

JAMES F. BYRNES

FRED M. VINSON

Above are pictured two of the chief cogs in the plan announced yesterday by President Roosevelt to mobilize the home front for war. Byrnes will head the newly created war mobilization board and Vinson, a member of the board, will succeed Byrnes as economic stabilization director. Other members of the new board are War Secretary Stimson, Navy Secretary Knox, WPB Chairman Nelson and Harry Hopkins, chairman of the munitions assignment board.

War Summary

AFRICA—Nearly 100 Flying Fortresses blast docks, oil refineries and shipyards in first raid on Italian city of Leghorn.

RUSSIA—Bitter air and land fighting continues along Kuban river.

Poppy Supply Sold Out on Opening Day

Members of the Auxiliary to Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, who launched their 1943 poppy sale yesterday at noon were "sold out" with the close of business at 8:30 o'clock last night. Sale of the 4,500 bright red flowers brought in $500.30 and will net the auxiliary $428.30 for its fund to carry on work for veterans of World War I and those of the present war, and their families.

The sale was scheduled for yesterday afternoon and today but cooperation of the public yesterday brought the benefit to a speedy close.

Meetings of the auxiliary will be held once a month during the summer and the next meeting June 11 will be on legislation and Pan-Americanism.

OIL REFINERIES AND SHIPYARDS BOMBED IN RAID

Large Port North of Rome Attacked for First Time Since Start of War.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 29—Almost 100 Flying Fortresses, striking the most distant objective yet assigned in the attack on Italy from North Africa, bombed Leghorn yesterday and left a smoky trail of devastation in the oil refineries, docks and shipyards of that large port 160 miles north of Rome.

At the same time, Cairo dispatches said, some two score American liberators smashed at Foggia and dropped 60 tons of bombs on that air base 80 miles east of Naples.

(Dispatches from London said large units of Italy's fleet, which has seldom ventured to sea since the start of the war, may have been at Leghorn—known as Livorno to the Italians—when the Flying Fortresses visited the harbor.

First Bombing

(This was the first time that Leghorn had been bombed.)

Two waves of Liberators attacked Foggia, near the Adriatic side of the Italian peninsula, and a United States communique from Cairo said direct hits were made on several hangars, numerous fires started, and at least 13 enemy bombers were destroyed or damaged.

British and American medium bombers and bomb-carrying fighters also carried the air war across the Mediterranean with unabated fury to objectives in Sicily, Sardinia and the stronghold of Pantelleria, the nearest axis-held territory.

Among these targets were the Castelvetrano airfield in Sicily and the railway station and oil installations at Augusta, Sicily, which were attacked Thursday night by big RAF bombers from the desert air force.

Shipyards at Leghorn

Leghorn is the seat of the great Ansaldo shipbuilding yard. Many of Italy's submarines were built there and it is an important submarine base.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's communique said the shipyard was plastered with bombs and "great damage" done. Three supply ships received hits and other large fires were started in the railroad yards and oil storage tanks.

Every Fortress got home from the attack, meeting only light fighter opposition and shooting down one of the few planes that dared attack the closely packed formations. The Fortresses made the raid alone, without fighter escort.

(The Italian communique acknowledged the raids on Leghorn and Foggia and also listed an attack on Lucera, about 12 miles northwest of Foggia. Rome said 51 were killed and 340 injured at Leghorn, while six were killed and nine injured in the neighborhood of Lucera. The Italians admitted "very considerable damage to public and private buildings" in Leghorn.)

Strong Force of Fortresses Strike Across Channel at Germans Today

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 29 — A great force of Flying Fortresses raided the continent today, returning in mid-afternoon, flying high and unescorted over the Folkestone area.

The forts came back in several close-flying formations and were barely distinguishable as they returned to base at 20,000 feet.

There was no immediate announcement of the fortresses' targets, nor of combat scores.

Considerable aerial traffic back and forth over the channel was heard during the night.

The air ministry news service said that six bomb-carrying Albacores of the fleet air arm surprised a fleet of 12 German motor gunboats off Cherbourg peninsula during the night and sank six and damaged three.

With tonight still to go, the British airmen already have run up the highest total of bombs dumped on Europe in any week of the war.

In three raids on a city-by-city demolition program in Germany's industrial Ruhr valley, a record of nearly 5,000 tons of blockbusters and other heavy bombs were loosed by the RAF heavy bombers.

The week began last Sunday night with the 2,000-ton bombing assault of Dortmund, the heaviest raid ever made on one city.

Duesseldorf was smashed with almost equal strength on Tuesday night and Essen Thursday night.

(Dispatches from Berlin, reaching Bern yesterday, said the death toll as the result of the attacks on the Moehne and Eder dams may reach 20,000 and that Paul Schmidt, Nazi foreign press chief told correspondents Germany would resort to "far-reaching reprisals with new diabolical engines" against England.

(The Berlin correspondents of the Tribune De Geneve said the German people were being told that it is "better to be in Berlin today than in London day after tomorrow.")

A total of 12,000 RAF crewmen took part in the super raids this week on Dortmund, Duesseldorf and Essen, Lord Sherwood, under-secretary of air, disclosed in a speech at Dumfries, Scotland.

"Our efforts will be doubled and even trebled," he added.

Warning Italy to be prepared for greater attacks, he said:

"She is starting to feel a little of our air power, but she will receive much more both in Sicily and Sardinia and on the mainland, despite the wails of the Rome radio."

Memorial Day and Graduates To Figure in Sunday Programs

Special Sermons and Recognition Services Planned by Many Churches; Seniors To Get Gifts.

Observance of Memorial Day and paying of honors to young people of local congregations who are graduating from high schools and colleges will mark services in Marion churches tomorrow.

Ministers will deliver Memorial sermons and special recognition will be given seniors in Sunday school or church services with flowers or gifts presented them. The honored guests will appear in caps and gowns in a number of the services. Guest speakers, including a college president will be heard in two churches.

Churches honoring graduates include Emanuel Lutheran, First Presbyterian, Epworth Methodist, Trinity Baptist, Central Christian, First United Brethren, Forest Lawn Presbyterian, Prospect Street Methodist, First Church of the Brethren, Salem Evangelical and Reformed, First Evangelical and Reformed, Oakland Evangelical and Fite Memorial Baptist. Wesley Methodist will have a special Memorial service.

Details of special services follow:

High school graduates of the Emanuel Lutheran church congregation will be honored at a baccalaureate service at 10:30 a. m. They will enter the sanctuary in robed procession. A gift will be presented each senior by Carl Campbell, superintendent of the Sunday school. Rennix VanScoy will preach with Rev. M. E. Hollensen, pastor, as liturgist. Mr. VanScoy was graduated from the Theological school at Capital university, Columbus, Thursday night. His subject will be "Face the Future Without Fear."

Presbyterian Service

Honoring of graduates of First Presbyterian church and Sunday school will be held in the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. Principal A. C. May of Harding High school will speak and a book will be presented each senior.

Rev. Howard L. Olewiler will deliver a Memorial sermon at 10:45 a. m. on "Two Phases of a Memorial."

Graduates of the Epworth Methodist congregation will meet in the church office tomorrow at 10:15 to march in procession in caps and gowns into the auditorium. Special recognition will be paid them by the board of education of the church and by the Sunday school; Dr. S. M. Ingmire will preach on "What Is Victory?"; and anthem by the choir will be presented with a solo by Mrs. E. N. Hale accompanied by Miss May Evangeline Lawrence at the organ.

In Trinity Baptist church a moment of silence will be observed in the morning worship in memory of the members of the church who have passed away during the last year. A list of these will be published in the church bulletin and their families are invited to be present and participate in the service. Rev. J. B. Holloway's subject will be "Remember Now."

The High school graduates will be honored guests at the Sunday school and morning worship services at Trinity. They will wear their gowns and will receive gifts in memory of the occasion. Twenty-one Harding seniors are listed and three from Pleasant Township.

U. B. Program

First United Brethren church will combine two special features of Memorial day observance and commencement recognition with a committee in charge of each phase of the program. A gift will be given each graduate of the congregation in behalf of the church with arrangements for the presentation in charge of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sands, Mrs. Clara Hilbreth and Mrs. Shirley Howard.

Families of members who have been taken by death within the year will be given recognition with the following in charge of the memorial plans, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Almendinger, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hufford, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Isch and Mr. and Mrs. Orn Cramer. Rev. Garrison Roebuck's subject will be "Eternal Life Through Knowing Jesus Christ."

Graduates will sit in a group in the service in Forest Lawn Presbyterian church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., wearing caps and gowns, and their parents will occupy seats behind the rows reserved for the young people. Each will be presented a "Church Remembrance Card" and red rose. Rev. J. A. Carriker will preach on "What Is Your Glory?"

Rev. Henry Maag of Prospect Street Methodist church will preach on "A Strange Request," a special message to the 12 graduates of the congregation.

A token of recognition will be given four high school graduates who are members of First Church of the Brethren congregation and Sunday school tomorrow in the unified service at 9:30 a. m. Rev. D. M. Hertzler will preach on "Life and Service." Reserved seats will be held for seniors and their parents.

Six In Salem Group

Six members of the graduating class of Harding High school will be honored in a service in Salem Evangelical and Reformed church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. Each will be given a gift booklet. Rev. H. C. Ahrens' subject will be "Children of Peace Are Children of God." Memorial day will be observed also in the service.

Dr. Clarence E. Josephson of Tiffin, president of Heidelberg college, will speak in First Evangelical and Reformed church at 10:45 a. m. tomorrow. Thirteen seniors of the local public high school will be honored.

"Christ's Perspective of Life" will be the message of Rev. J. R. Dallas of Oakland Evangelical church to high school and college graduates who are members of his church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m.

The Willing Workers class of Fite Memorial Baptist church, with a number of mothers of graduates as members, will present each graduate of the congregation with a rose and the Sunday school will give each one a pocket size New Testament in the worship hour at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. "Under the Sun," with a text from the book of Ecclesiastes will be Rev. Dana M. Austin's message to the young people. Twelve seniors will be honored.

Teachers Won't Be Held to War Plant Jobs

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—The state department of education informed Ohio teachers in a departmental news letter yesterday that they may accept any type of summer employment without fear of being "frozen" as an essential worker.

"The war manpower commission wants teachers to return to teaching in the fall," the department said.

Lutherans Plan Children's Service

The annual Children's Day Missionary service of Emanuel Lutheran church will be held during the Sunday school hour when it will open at 9 a. m. tomorrow instead of the usual time, 9:15.

Included in the children's service will be recitations by Patricia Walker, Marjorie Meister, Phyllis Corbin, Marilyn Fetter, Janet Keener, Patricia Jonnson, Anita Porter, Sarah Meister, Kay Leffler, Marjorie Hinaman, Mildred Jones, Wilma Salisbury, Robert Baughman Jr., Richard Bolinger, Murray Leiger, Stephen Lytle, Linda Lee Snyder, Douglas Jesse, Leslie Irey, Edward Finley, Gary Meister, Paul Ruehrmund, Gilbert Herr, Layton Stuart, Krug Klaffer, Richard Milton, Rebecca Roecker, Judy Ann Wilson, Carol Jean Hollensen, Gail Reichenstein, Leroy Budd, Annette Meister, John Guthrie Jr., Richard Williams, Marilyn Peterson, Carolyn Peterson, William Leffler, Ronald Meddles, James Snyder, Helen Barkley, Helen Louise Fetter, Catherine Ruehrmund, Fred Keener, Carl Bentley, Delbert Ufferman, Sandra Leffler, Joyce Bentley, Janet Keener, Juanita Finley, Ruth Belle Augenstein, Harriett Neimeyer, Mary Larsen, Mary Jo Ansley, Donald Baughman, Marilyn Porter, Marilyn Ufferman, Larry Corbin, Kenneth Hinaman, David Axtheim, Joe Metcalf, Eugene Jerew, Eugene Dye, Maxine Armbruster, Sharon Evans, Jean Barkley, Marybelle Jones, Doris Lee Vranes, Richard Foos, Robert Dye, Franklin Cornelius, Sandra Jevas; song by the beginners' department; song by Marjorie Ann Umbaugh and Lenore Dunc; recitations by Nancy Byrd, George Disterdick and Edward Marshall; anthem by the Junior choir.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday May 30

SUNDAY'S horoscope promises fair activity in needful lines where well directed energy should bring results. Also there may be writings, correspondence and short journeys. In certain ways there may be regrettable squandering of substance.

Those whose birthday it is may have a moderately busy year in the effort to put over practical objectives, probably on new ideas and purposes. Clever and constructive thinking may result in favorable outcomes. Be conservative and prudent.

A child born on this day should be clever and have practical ability and energy, which should give success if its funds be thriftily used.

* * *

For Monday, May 31

MONDAY'S astrological forecast holds augury of progress and steady growth in many novel lines, where ingenuity sustained by sound judgment and practical techniques are required. There may be little outside cooperation to effect results.

Those whose birthday it is may have the opportunity to demonstrate some unique talent of an original character during the year. For most satisfactory results it will be best to develop such ideas in private, without outside assistance. But sound and straight thinking should be industriously applied. Associations are prone to be deceptive.

A child born on this day should be blessed with fine creative talent of a unique or novel expression, and have good judgment.

Ye Pastyme Club Meets at Green Camp

Special to The Star

GREEN CAMP — "I Confess My Faith," a story by Madame Chiang Kai-shek was read by Mrs. Donna Ruth Jones at a meeting of Ye Pastyme club Wednesday with Mrs. Dorothy Porter. Responsibility

A SERMONETTE

Pastor of First Pilgrim Holiness Church

Text — James 4:17: "Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

IT DOES not honor God in this day for us to spend our day in arguing the question as to whether there be a God or not. Neither should we give ourselves to a constant searching to find out God. The best way of honoring Jesus Christ is to believe His Word, trust His Grace, mark the triumphs of His saving power, and for ourselves to act on the facts we know. Few people today that can truthfully declare they live up to what they know. God hath not revealed to us the knowledge of Himself and His will merely for the improvement of our understanding, but for the bettering of our hearts and lives. It is hard for men under the plain precepts of the Gospel not to know how to do good. Jesus says in John 13 and 17, "If ye know these things happy are ye if you do them." But how apt we are to rest satisfied with this miserable notional religion, seeing, believing, attending, listening, hearing, and nothing come of it after all. The Great Searcher of hearts searches right through all sophistry of that kind, and He tells us over and over again in His Word that hearing, knowing, assenting, and believing, simply goes for nothing, unless there is acting right in daily life. How! apt we are to make New Year's regulations and boast that we can do this and that and the other thing. Purposes and plans of usefulness for ourselves and for the benefit of others we make most liberally, and how many of them come to anything after all.

"To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." Dear friends have some of us begun this year with this feeling that we really ought to be far more diligent in the keeping of our hearts? Perhaps you say "I acknowledge that my habits of private devotions are becoming careless and hurried and unsatisfactory. I really ought to study my Bible more frequently. I really ought to give more time to it, I really ought to pray with more feeling and bring down a blessing from on high. I really ought to do this, I really ought to give more time to it. I confess that my time for devotion has been often sadly skimped and hurried. Devotion can not be done in a hurry. Hurried devotion spoils all, as I have heard it said cream does not come upon milk, unless it stands. I really must be different, you say. I will be more careful, more systematic in the study of my Bible. It is well to make resolutions of that kind, but remember that the very knowledge that you ought to do this is positive sin if it is neglected.

Let us take another branch of Christian duty: some will say I have been leading a very selfish life. God has given me many things to enjoy. He has been giving me time. He has been giving me money, and I have just been using these things for my own enjoyment and pleasure and profit, forgetting that I must use them as committed to me as a steward, who shall have to give an account to God. I must make a better use of my money. I must look clearly, and see how much of my money I am giving to God, and how much I am keeping to myself. Perhaps it is time you have, I am bound, you say, to make better use of my time. I acknowledge I have wasted a great deal of it uselessly and shamefully. I ought to really employ it differently. I ought to visit among the poor and the sick and the afflicted. I ought to try and comfort them more than I have been doing. I know that I ought to use my opportunities so as to bring at least one soul to the knowledge of the Saviour. I am I ought. You feel you ought, you know you ought. Then you are guilty of deliberate sin if you don't. Judging from the ordinary standpoint, you may be that is morally beautiful and amiable, but if you know you ought to lead this useful life and if you are leading a useless and indulgent life, "to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not to him it is sin."

Social Security plus Life Insurance at Retirement

By supplementing your Social Security Benefits with a small Commonwealth Retirement policy, you can be certain of a comfortable living standard at retirement.

This plan will provide:

- A definite income of $25, $50, $75 a month at 60 or 65, to continue for as long as you live.
- A reserve fund that can be drawn against in case of emergency.
- Immediate protection for your family.

Let one of our representatives show you how little you will have to save each month to have an adequate retirement plan.

STANDLEY IS REPORTED READY TO QUIT MOSCOW

Admiral Said To Be Dissatisfied With Embassy Post.

By The Associated Press

York Times, in a Washington YYork Times, in a Washington dispatch quoting "well informed circles," says that Admiral William H. Standley has notified President Roosevelt of his desire to resign immediately as ambassador to Moscow.

According to the report, it was added, the admiral expressed his desire in a telegram on or about the day Joseph E. Davies arrived in Moscow May 19 with the President's letter to Premier Stalin. The Times story continued:

"The resignation has not yet been accepted and it may be that Admiral Standley will receive some other post in the government, either abroad or here. But there seems to be no question that he has become dissatisfied with conditions surrounding his present mission and feels it of little use for him to continue in his present office. According to some reports, his message of resignation was vigorous."

WASHINGTON, May 29 — Secretary of State Cordell Hull said today he knew nothing of a reported desire of Admiral William H. Standley to resign as ambassador to the Soviet Union.

Letters from Our Readers

ONE NATION, INDIVISIBLE

Editor of The Star: Although originally conceived as a day of special homage to those who died in the war between the states, Memorial day assumed a new significance following the war with Spain in 1898. Then followed the first World war in 1917-18, a war which gave millions of younger Americans a new appreciation of this patriotic anniversary. With each succeeding war, the growing honor roll of America's heroic dead has given increased emphasis to our solidarity as a united nation, one nation indivisible, with sectionalism and internal enmities eliminated.

Those who have paid the supreme sacrifice in this war since Pearl Harbor represent all the 48 states and possessions north and south of the Mason and Dixon line.

They gave their lives because of their love and loyalty to the United States of America and not because they came from homes in Wisconsin, Ohio, Maine, Georgia or in Alabama. In reality Memorial day glorifies certain principles of Americanism which were born with the Declaration of Independence. Those who accept this basic truth will abandon the attitude that Memorial day is an historic anniversary identified exclusively with the events of 1865.

This year the approach of May 30 deserves special consideration by the patriotic elements in every community, north and south, east and west. We owe this not only to the memory of our honored dead of previous wars, but also to the present generation of American heroes who sleep in their unmarked graves on Bataan and Corregidor, Guadalcanal, beneath the waters of the seven seas, in the jungle swamps of the tropics and beneath the soil in North Africa. This year May 30 falls on the last Sunday in the month. This should afford a greater number of people the opportunity to personally participate in the appropriate ceremonies which will be held at our patriotic shrines. Then perhaps, when this war is over, the true purpose of Memorial day will be established in the hearts of our people. We will never again use this sacred anniversary as an excuse for lodge meetings, fishing trips, golf tournaments, baseball games and any other aimless celebrations. I would call special attention to those groups who decide by a minority vote of their members that they will not participate in Memorial Day services.

I AM AN AMERICAN.

Kenton Postal Veteran To Retire from Service

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 29-Likable Adam W. (Ed) Moroff, a past exalted ruler and secretary of the Kenton Elks lodge, will retire tomorrow from the U. S. postal service after years of faithful service that saw him losing pay for only one day of work.

Ever since the local office started its parcel post delivery service, Ed Moroff had been in charge of deliveries. On Monday, those duties will be assumed by Perle Shields, a Kenton city postman.

Mr. Moroff started at the Kenton postoffice under former Postmaster Carl W. Smith as a delivery boy and later as custodian. He is retiring tomorrow upon attainment of the retirement age and will devote his time to assisting with work at his nearby farm and orchard.

Honor and Glory to our Fighting Heroes

• These are the wars they have fought, and the years they entered combat: the Civil War in 1861; the Spanish-American War in 1898; World War I in 1917—and the present conflict. Those who died in battle, and those who live on with memories of war—are our honored heroes on this day. We salute them, every one.

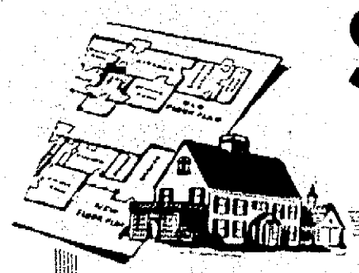
FRANK BROS.



SORRY . . . BUT NOT TODAY — —

In normal times we have supplied you with the last word in plumbing and heating materials for the home of your dreams, but today that must wait until Victory is won.

Yes, today we are engaged 100% in aiding the war effort in two distinct ways, both equally important.

Despite the shortage of manpower in our own organization, we are supplying war materials to the war plants in North Central Ohio in ever increasing quantities. These products vary from small tools to items which in the finished products are being delivered to the battlefronts from the Shores of Australia to the Sands of Africa. This is our patriotic duty and our cherished privilege.

We serve on the home front by supplying you to the best of our ability, the materials necessary to keep your plumbing and heating system in repair for the duration, together with materials for war housing developments. Restrictions on the use and application of these materials make even this service difficult.

Nevertheless we pledge ourselves in behalf of those men fighting your war and ours. May our continued effort hasten the day of Victory and the Return to Peace and Security.

Union Co. Farmers Plan Hard Work on Holiday

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 29—More than 20 days behind in their spring planting, Union county farmers planned to spend the Memorial Day holiday in the fields.

Not more than five per cent of the corn and soybeans in Union county had been sown up to Friday when incessant rains stopped to make ground workable. Most corn in this community is planted by May 20 in a normal year.

Sunday was expected to look like a weekday on farms when plans were made to run tractors in a majority of fields. Ten days of good working weather is expected to enable farmers to complete most of their corn planting.

REMODEL Keep Your Home in Good Condition for HOME DEFENSE REPAIR

MANY HOME FIRES CAN BE PREVENTED

Much of Tremendous Loss Yearly Is Avoidable.

Many millions of dollars go up in smoke through fire losses each year. Much is avoidable, FHA officials point out. According to the National Board of Civilian Defense, there are approximately 685,000 fires annually in the U. S. and of these 393,000 are in dwellings and represent a loss of approximately 92 billion dollars.

Many of these fires are preventable and can be attributed to negligence on the part of home owners. Good maintenance in every type of structure, whether it is residential, commercial or institutional, is particularly important right now, which doesn't mean not just money but the conservation of critical and irreplaceable materials which are essential to victory in the war.

Many fires, particularly in the home, can be attributed to the accumulation of evil conditions of the property by rust, rot and general decay. The continued weathering of unprotected wood results in cracks and roughness which provide tinder for sparks which would be harmless if they contacted a smooth, unbroken surface.

Every home owner should take particular pains to see that all fire hazards on his property are eliminated. If the roof of his home is covered with wooden shingles they should be fireproofed. The furnace should be inspected and put in good working order. Faulty wiring, electrical outlets, and appliances should be attended to without delay. Attics, storerooms, and cellars should be cleaned regularly. Care should be used in the use of inflammable cleaning fluids. Oily rags should be disposed of immediately. Heating units should be checked to maintain them in safe operation. These are just a few of the reasons responsible for many home fires. By proper care and attention to these details many millions of dollars in home-fire losses can be eliminated.

Building Quiz

Question. The fringe on my rug is soiled-looking due to the fact that it collects wax from the floor. How can I restore it to its original color? A rag rug is soiled in the same way.

Answer: Shampoo it with the thick lather of a mild soap, then wipe with cloths dampened in clear, warm water. Most rag rugs can be laundered. If yours can not be, you can remove the wax soiling by dipping the rug several times in carbon tetrachloride.

• • •

Q. When wood starts to rot, is there anything that can be done to check it?

A. The remaining wood can be saved by the complete removal of the rotted wood. If decay is caused by dry rot, which is a fungus that will spread, the infected wood must be cut out completely and destroyed. When decay is caused by dampness, the wood that has rotted should be removed and replaced by new woodwork that is protected from future dampness.

• • •

Q. We are troubled by cold air that comes in around the woodwork of our windows. Can this be remedied?

A. To a large extent it can be corrected. If the walls are masonry, the joints between the masonry walls and the window frames should be thoroughly calked. If the walls are wood, shrinkage has probably taken place, and the joints in the wood must be calked. Tow or cotton candlewick may be used as the packing, and this should be mixed with white lead and packed in tightly. A commercial calking compound may be used. If there are gaps back of the trim or woodwork around the windows, these should be filled either with candlewick or plaster of paris. It is better to stop the leaks on the outside of the wall.

Q. There are several cracks between the concrete blocks of my cellar walls. In filling these cracks, should I use waterproof concrete?

A. That is not necessary, for ordinary mortar can be so dense as to be practically waterproof. Dig out the old mortar for a depth of two inches or more, and pack the joints with a mixture of one part cement and three parts clean building sand. Use only enough water to make the mixture workable. Before filling the joints, the cement blocks should be thoroughly soaked, so that water will not be drawn out from the new mortar. The mortar should be kept damp for several days to give the cement time to cure.

Q. I can get many old cartons of corrugated pasteboard. Could I use these for insulation under my attic floor?

A. Three or four layers will give excellent insulation, but I strongly advise against it. For one thing, pasteboard is a fire risk, and for another, it is attractive to many kinds of insects. Silverfish thrive on it; mice also. For satisfaction, insulation should be of a material that repels insects and vermin, that is fireproof, and that will not absorb and hold moisture. Corrugated pasteboard fails on all three points.

• • •

Q. Our oil burner always shows an excessive amount of soot. Repeated adjustments by the local agent do no good, and the manufacturer will not do anything. What is the cause of this soot?

A. One cause may be an insufficient amount of air for the oil that is being fed; the mixture is too rich. If the air adjustment is open to its limit, the supply of oil should be cut down, possibly by the use of a smaller nozzle.

When an oil burner has been off for some time, overnight, for instance, the boiler is cool; then when the burner goes on, the oil does not vaporize as it should. Later, when all parts are hot, oil will be completely vaporized and will burn clean. But in those first moments, smoke and soot will form. This can not be prevented; it can be offset only by frequent cleaning.

Make It LAST!

Fight Moths

By VIVIAN BROWN
Associated Press Writer

You can keep your clothes from being perforated in spite of the lowly moth. Now more than ever before it is important to take care of your precious winter wools.

Be sure to get all clothes free from moths before storing them. Those little pests just can't take sunlight so give them plenty of it. But the small moth eggs can go undetected and it's your job to clean them out—as within four to eight days of summer weather they will hatch into the moth larvae, or worms, that eat the wool.

Dry cleaning, washing or sunning and airing accompanied with brisk brushing will help kill moths and destroy eggs and larvae.

Next when clothing is free of moths store it away immediately. Put in paper bags, wrap in paper, seal in boxes or store in trunks, chests, or tight closets.

As an added safety measure use flake naphthalene, paradichlorobenzene or mothballs which contain one or both of these chemicals. These preparations give off gas that discourages the moth larvae from feeding on wool. The crystals or balls should be tied in a cloth sack and hung on a hanger high in the closet inside a paper protector. Sprinkle them through folds of clothing, cuffs and pockets.

It will take only about one pound of flake naphthalene or paradichlorobenzene for a small closet, chest, trunk or wooden box—and it will pay dividends.

INCREASE REPORTED IN HOG MARKETING

Farmers Begin Moving Animals in Sizeable Numbers.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 29—Farmers began moving their hogs to market in substantial numbers this week in Chicago and other principal trading centers and prices here moved downward to the lowest level in five months.

The top price dropped to $14.30 per hundredweight Thursday, and the average price fell to $14.19, the lowest since last December 18. After four heavy days, receipts fell off somewhat Friday and the price moved up slightly to a $14.40 top, compared with $14.60 a week ago Friday.

Salable hog receipts in 12 leading markets for the first five days this week totaled 384,500, compared with 331,500 a week ago and 297,300 for the same period a year ago.

Receipts normally start to climb at this time, traders said, because the heavy "June runs" of hogs begin to arrive on the market.

The cattle market meanwhile was stimulated by the largest purchases of fat steers by eastern order buyers in years. Steer trade finished steady to 25 cents higher, heifers strong, cows and bulls strong to 25 cents up, and vealers firm.

Salable lamb receipts were reduced sharply but this failed to prevent declines of 15 to 25 cents which traders said was in sympathy with a proposed "roll back" of dressed lamb prices. The wooled lamb top was $16.25. Sheep were in active demand and mostly steady.

Number of Realty Transfers Takes Sharp Drop in County During Week

A marked drop in the number of real estate transfers listed in the office of County Recorder Grace D. Zachman last week was noted as compared with the number recorded the week before. Twenty-seven transfers were listed last week as against 48 the previous week, a decrease of 21.

Thirteen mortgages listed last week contrasted to 23 the preceding week, a drop of 10, amounting to $17,475 as against $49,755 for the week before. Eleven on city properties totaled $14,075 and two on county properties were for $1,800 and $1,600.

Loan companies made seven loans totaling $11,275, three banks made loans of $600, $1,200 and $1,600; the Federal Land Bank loaned $1,800 and two individuals loaned $500 and $450.

Realty transfers included:

Fleet Brown to Harry F. Wilson, Marion st. (except life estate) $1.

Mary A. Burkhart to Howard J. Burkhart and others, certificate of transfer of undivided one half (½) interest in part Marion lot.

Furnaces Damaged by Improper Firing

Grates are put into furnaces for two purposes—to hold the fuel bed and to admit air.

Furnace manufacturers make these grates out of very highgrade alloyed iron and as heavy as possible, to prevent their warping and burning. In spite of this, many sets of grates are replaced each year. In every case this is the result of the abuse of improper firing.

The remedy is simple: Keep a layer of ashes on top of the grates and keep the ash-pit clean. The ashes on the grates prevent their contact with the hot coals. The air flowing through the grates helps to keep them from becoming overheated. Scientific tests have shown that loose ashes have very little resistance to air flow. Therefore, four to six inches of ashes on the grates will not cut the draft appreciably.

Do not shake the grates violently and never dump the grates until you want to clean the furnace out for the summer. A full ash-pit, particularly when the ashes are in contact with the grates, prevents the proper circulation of air and causes the grates to become overheated.

Postwar Heating Trends Outlined

Probable postwar trends in heating equipment were discussed recently at a meeting of representatives of manufacturers of boilers, radiators, automatic controls, steam and hot water heating specialties, stokers, oil burners, gas burners, and the coal industry.

Meeting in Chicago, the nation's heating experts along with research specialists from the University of Illinois, heating contractors, architects, and builders sought to determine probable public preferences and the effect of postwar housing designs on heating requirements.

It was agreed by the heating experts, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau, that the fuel oil crisis is likely to have a permanent effect in making future purchasers of heating equipment more keenly aware of the importance of good heating and sound house construction.

That buyers in the postwar period will be less price-conscious and more quality conscious as a result of the fuel oil crisis was the opinion shared by architects as well as builders and heating men.

Registration Set For Hardin Co. Blood Donors

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., May 29—Mrs. Catherine Bridge, chairman of the Hardin county Red Cross blood donor service, today announced establishment of registration centers in Kenton, Ada, Dunkirk, Forest, Mt. Victory, Ridgeway, Dola, Roundhead and Belle Center to facilitate acceptance of more than 500 registrations for the third local appearance of blood bank representatives, June 9-10-11.

More than 500 donors are needed, and only 321 have registered, Mrs. Bridge said. Local women assist representatives of the Franklin county chapter, American Red Cross, in registration on days of the donations, in preparing and serving food and in reception of prospective donors. As on the previous two visits here, the mobile blood service unit will have its headquarters at the Kenton Elks club.

MANY BUILDINGS CONVERTED TO HOMES

Four-Story Mill Structure Now Houses 175.

Many structures other than existing home properties are being turned over to government housing agencies and utilized to provide housing accommodations for war workers in critical housing areas.

An example is the recent purchase by the Federal Public Housing Authority of Perry Mill, a 110-year-old four-story stone textile mill building at Newport, R. I. It is planned to convert the structure into dormitory with accommodations for 175 war workers.

This is the first building to be purchased outright under the National Housing Agency conversion program to provide housing for war workers through the remodeling of existing structures. In most instances, conversion is being carried on either through the use of private funds or lease of the property to the government.

Since the launching of the conversion program, the FPHA has taken over four structures for remodeling under government lease. These include an office building at Mobile, Ala., resort hotels at Summerville, S. C., and Southern Pines, N. C., and a dormitory at Aroostock State Normal school, Presque Island, Maine.

The Perry Mill building at Newport will require only interior partitioning and the installation of necessary utilities, and can be made available for occupancy quickly.

It is pointed out that the Perry Mill project is typical of the structures to be utilized in the conversion program to provide dormitory units. FPHA regional offices have been instructed to make surveys for suitable structures in their regions that may be converted.

New Graves, Far Away

MEMORIAL day honors all Americans who have died, or risked death, in the service of their country during wartime.

War twice has added to the original list of heroes since the Civil war. Another addition is being made now. Perhaps it will be the last.

Our Memorial day thoughts this year are of the new graves, far away. American men have been laid to rest in jungles and deserts. They have fallen in airplanes and found their final resting places in all the oceans.

And they are eminently worthy to take their symbolic places in the quiet ranks of the nation's heroic dead. There is a price that must be paid for the privilege of existence—a very great price. Our fighting men are paying it today; their fathers paid it yesterday; their children may be called on to pay it tomorrow.

In their honor—in honor of all who risk and accept death in defense of their fellowmen—we pay our sincerest tribute.

Ultimatum To End Ultimatums

CONCLUSION of Akron's major strike in the rubber mills by virtue of a presidential ultimatum is not reassuring. Certain union groups meanwhile have issued an ultimatum to the war labor board concerning the board's handling of the rubber workers' case, a growing practice. The air is full of ultimatums.

There is no popular faith in their power. They are of strictly limited usefulness. The President of the United States should not have to draw deadlines in order to maintain production in war plants; they come too close to the method of desperation.

The nation's current labor troubles, some predict, will get worse before they get better. There is one ultimatum still in the hole—the ultimatum to end ultimatums in wartime: Work or fight. Every new strike brings the nation closer to the ultimate ultimatum of doing what needs to be done at home or doing what needs to be done in the armed services.

Boa Constrictor Methods

WAR labor board's arrangement whereby John L. Lewis and bituminous coal operators can get together to reach a new agreement that will give the miners substantially what they want and at the same time give the operators control of their property again is vaguely reminiscent of a boa constrictor at feeding time.

The meal, in this instance, is the war labor board, slowly being ingested by Mr. Lewis, after being previously squeezed into a pulp by organized labor in general. In other words, it looks as though Mr. Lewis has done what he was said to be trying to do. He has proved he is still able to swing more weight in a pinch than the war labor board; he has made it give ground by its arrangement to bring him and the operators together to renew negotiations, with the board not represented.

It may be too soon to jump at conclusions, but it looks as though WLB might be on its way to oblivion.

Domestic Shakeup

THERE is nothing in the prospect of a domestic shakeup that can be called encouraging, yet it probably can not be averted. Once more the various resentments have accumulated to the bursting point. Things do not seem to be going as well as they should go on the home front.

Most directly in the line of fire are OPA and WLB, both heavily criticized by organized labor and both subject to special criticism by compact minority interests affected in their operations by the rulings of these agencies. But also affected are such widely divergent agencies as the department of labor, which has failed to exert dynamic leadership, and the treasury department, which lost prestige in the weird handling of the Ruml tax reform issue. The country outside Washington, confirmed in its belief that the capital is out of touch by the word of President Roosevelt, himself, is inclined to be critical.

Those who have been critical of the Roosevelt administration in bygone years detect a striking familiarity now to the critical pattern usually followed in the New Deal days: That the promise exceeds the performance. Insofar as an administration can be said to have character, this one has been distinguished by unusual mastery of the art of seeing what might be done and disconcerting failure to back up its vision with painstaking execution. Thus, there seems to be significance in praise for the President's handling of foreign affairs coupled with criticism for his handling of domestic problems. It is the same distinction that used to be made between his social planning and the performance of his ordinary administrative tasks.

If the plans for fighting the war abroad are all made, as they are reported to be, there is need for Mr. Roosevelt to spare a little time for concentrated thought on the home front problems. They are threatening to cripple the whole war effort unless they are handled better than they have been so far.

Italy's Dilemma Seen Largely Result of Blunders of Mussolini.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE STAGE is set for the grand climax of the Italian drama. Rarely, if ever before, has a great nation been in such a tragic position. For the fundamental and permanent national interests of Italy are bound up with the defeat of her ally, with the destruction of the Fascist Germany on the northern land frontier of Italy. Thus the Italians who are dying in battle are dying for a cause to which they are fatally opposed by the vital interests of their country.

Yet while the Italian forces continue to resist, and to occupy the Balkans and a portion of southern France, the Allies must subject Italy to devastating attack. In the course of this attack, if the resistance is prolonged, it may well happen that we shall strike such annihilating blows at the Italian economy that Italy, though liberated, will find it hard to recover. For the air bombardment today is only the prelude. It is only the reduction of strategic positions from which the heart of Italy will be laid open to mortal blows.

Italians Know Situation

This terrible dilemma could not be resolved by the action of Italian patriots who were ready for the sake of the future of Italy to take the risk of breaking with Germany and of throwing themselves on the mercy of the Allies.

The Fascist propaganda may, and will, and no doubt must, deny that Italy can be saved only by an Allied victory. But Italians, who are not personally entangled in the crimes of the Fascist politicians, know that it is true. They know it not because the British and the Americans say it. They know it though we said not a word about it. They know it from their own history and their own deepest national instinct.

Even Mussolini knows it. He knows it so well that he is incapable of rallying the Italian nation in this supreme crisis. For at a time like this a nation can be rallied, as Britain was in 1940 and Russia in 1941, only if the leaders and their people believe that they are fighting for their country and their homes.

Mussolini, though he is a great orator cannot rally Italy today. He cannot do it because, under all his Fascist demagogy and knavery, he is not a self-righteous alien fanatic like Hitler, but an intelligent, though unscrupulous, Italian. Being Italian and intelligent, Mussolini knows perfectly well that when he let Germany establish herself on the Italian frontier, he betrayed the national interests of Italy, and his own convictions as well.

Mussolini may be sick, fat and old. But what cramps his style is the knowledge of his own criminal blundering.

We have his own words and acts to prove it. They are well known, because they are self-evident, to all Italian patriots. On May 29, 1925, when Mussolini was already the duce, he addressed the Italian senate on the subject of the pan-German propaganda for the annexation of Austria: "Italy would never be able to tolerate," he said, "such a patent violation of treaties" which "would frustrate Italy's victory in 1918 by weakening the national frontier on the Brenner; and finally by augmenting Germany's man power and territorial position to the point of making that country the most powerful bloc in central Europe."

Nine years later, in July, 1934, he still held the same obvious Italian opinion. Hitler had just committed his first important murder on foreign soil—the murder of the Austrian chancellor, Dollfuss—as a preparation for the annexation of Austria. Mussolini sent a telegram to the Austrian vice-chancellor Schuschnigg saying "The independence of Austria, for which Dollfuss fell, is a principle which Italy has defended and which she will defend even more energetically."

First Mistake

It was only after he had made a dirty secret deal with Laval about Ethiopia that he got himself so entangled with Hitler that he could no longer defend the national security of Italy. Then the Italian tragedy began.

The primary national interest of Italy—that Germany should not be her neighbor on the Brenner — can and will be achieved by one of the indubitable aims of the United Nations. This is the liberation and restoration of Austria.

There can be no doubt that this commitment — essential to the health of Europe—will be fulfilled. For it is not only Italy that needs an independent Austria. The Balkan states need it. The Danubian state need it. Even Germany needs it if Germany is ever to take her place in European society again. For Austria is the seat of German culture in its most civilized form and the living proof, therefore, that Germans as such are neither a master race nor congenitally barbarians.

Mutiny, Sign of Collapse

Kiel Uprising Broke Germany in 1918.

ONE of the invariable signs of collapse in a war-weary country is mutiny. Reports received of Italian mutiny in the Balkans and German mutiny on a submarine at sea, while unconfirmed, are samples of what may be expected as the war progresses. A reliable report of mutiny in Axis forces would foreshadow the beginning of the end.

While mutinies are not a primary cause of defeat in war, they usually indicate widespread disintegration of morale. When mutiny broke out in the German fleet at Kiel on Nov. 3, 1918, it was only three days later that German delegates left Berlin to treat for an armistice, and within a week the kaiser had abdicated. The mutiny spread to other points and soon all Germany was in the throes of revolution.

The mutiny of troops of the Petrograd garrison in March, 1917, brought an end to the reign of the czars in Russia and was followed by events that shook the world. A second mutiny by the Petrograd garrison and by naval forces at Kronstadt, in November, 1917, brought the downfall of the Kerensky government and the seizure of power by Lenin and Trotsky. A "decree of peace" was published on the following day, and an armistice between Russia and the Central Powers was concluded in December.

Russia was brought to the verge of economic ruin by the early policies of the Communists, added to the effects of the Allied blockade, and an uprising of sailors at Kronstadt in February, 1921, was put down with great difficulty, after much bloodshed. Introduction of Lenin's "new economic policy" followed.

A mutiny of the Spanish garrison at Jaca, December 1930, set in motion a chain of events which brought the abdication of King Alfonso and establishment of a republican form of government in Spain. In the civil war which resulted from a revolt of army chiefs in Spanish Morocco in 1936, Spain became the testing ground for methods of warfare to be employed by the Axis powers in World war II.

Final Obstacle

By The Associated Press

BATON ROUGE, La.—Mindful of the war, Louisiana State university's SAE group accepted a campus ban against dance decorations for their traditional "black and white" spring formal. They figured black and white formal togs for men and white gowns for coeds would carry out the theme.

But along came a wartime laundry edict against washing linen coats and then an order requiring all male students to wear khaki uniforms for the duration.

Finally, two days before the dance the real blow fell. A student contracted meningitis and all social functions were ordered cancelled.

Result: no dance at all.

INDEPENDENCE, Kas.—"You might pray for rain," said Lieut. Col. Richard Montgomery to Miss Olveta F. Brumley when she reported to the officers' club at the Independence air base as hostess and asked for her first assignment. That night it rained six inches deep.

The next day the colonel met the new hostess in the club and said: "I appreciated your prompt response to orders but don't you think you're overdoing it just a little?"

Tugs Do Good Work

By The Associated Press

LONDON—Thousands of tons of war cargoes which German U-boat commanders have reported as at the bottom of the sea have been rescued by the ocean-going tugs of Britain's Royal Navy.

The little ships sometimes go as far as 500 miles out to save many merchant ships which otherwise would have been unable to make port. Most recent of their exploits is the rescuing of a merchant ship, part of whose bow had been sheared off by a torpedo.

MEMORIAL DAY!

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, May 29, 1933.

Dr. N. Sifritt, chairman of the county recruiting committee, received word that 220 young men from Marion, Crawford, Morrow and Wyandot counties would leave June 5 for government forest camps under the new CCC program.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Craver of 602 Oak street.

Mrs. Alice D. George, 62, died at her home on East Church street.

Dr. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to former President Hoover, visited in Marion, stopping here on his way to take charge of medical work on a navy ship at San Pedro, Calif. He visited Dr. and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer and Mrs. C. E. Sawyer at White Oaks Farm.

Mrs. Della E. Cocherl Hickman, 55, former Marion resident, died in Grant hospital at Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Lukens of Chicago arrived to spend Memorial day with Mr. Lukens' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Lukens of Franconia avenue. Mr. Lukens was founder and headmaster of Home Center schools in Chicago.

Miss Lucille Crock of Erie, Pa., was visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Crock of Blaine avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Merriman returned to their home at Stony Ridge, O., after a visit with Mr. Merriman's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Swearingen of South Vine street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 29, 1923.

It was officially announced at Washington that an offer of $1,051,000,000 had been made to the United States shipping board for the government's entire merchant marine fleet.

Members of the Avesta club were entertained by Mrs. Grover Hahn at her home on Bellefontaine avenue.

The annual guest day meeting of the Altrurian club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klunk on Girard avenue.

Mrs. Mary Harrison Day, 83, granddaughter of Eber Baker, founder of Marion, died at the City hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMurray of Powhattan street.

Samuel C. Blair, 71, of Lee street was found dead beside the grave of his wife in Marion cemetery where he had gone to place flowers for Memorial day. Death was caused by a heart attack.

Potato Black Market

Washington, D. C., Violations Put Problem in Lap of Congress.

By JACK STINNETT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 29—If and when that rumored big shakeup in the Office of Price administration comes, one of the most potent contributing factors undoubtedly will be the black market scandals in potatoes.

It's true that the whole price control and rationing programs are in a worse muddle than they ever have been, but the spud shortage and attendant black market sales were dumped right on the doorstep of congress and official Washington.

Already 12 District of Columbia grocers have been arrested and placed under bond, charged with violating ceiling prices on potatoes and inferentially buying their potatoes in the black market. Among these are some of the most reputable grocers in the district, and investigators estimate that they have enough additional complaints on hand to bring the total to around 30.

In sections of Alabama and Florida, the War Food administration has taken over all shipments of spuds, requiring shippers to obtain permits before they can dispose of their product. That's the most drastic action yet taken and may be an indication of what is ahead in all scarce basic food products.

Letter from Maine

I had a letter from a Maine potato grower which throws some new light on the situation.

"A lot of the trouble," says this grower, who asked that his name not be used, "has been due to the Army's lack of foresight in handling financial arrangements with dealers.

"The Army pays the ceiling price for U. S. No. 1's but the accounts have to clear through Washington and it takes from six weeks to four months to get your pay. The Army first used an allocation system whereby every dealer was supposed to supply the Army with so many cars a week. Some of the men were tapped for 5, 10 and even 30 cars a week and you can imagine the amount of money they had tied up at the end of a month. A lot of the dealers were running around with $200,000 to $300,000 in government claims on the books and no money to meet Saturday night payrolls.

"Then came the freeze but the Army continued to insist on getting potatoes on those long-term credits.

"Of course it was only a short time until someone figured out the 'selected seed' business and immediately everybody began hauling 'seed potatoes.' Right now, we are shipping U. S. No. 1's to the dehydrating plants and every one else is getting culls, including the Army.

"Next year there will be an increase in acreage if we can get them into the ground. I don't know what the good Lord is going to have to say about harvesting time, but He has said already that the planting season will be two weeks late at least. I have very serious doubts as to whether there will be sufficient skilled labor to nurse the potato plants along to anything like maximum production.

There you have at least one phase of the situation in one state. There probably could be only one thing worse than cutting America's potato rations—that would be taking away its bread.

Book Thieves Busy

By The Associated Press

LONDON—Dealers and the police are trying to end a wave of book-stealing in London and other large cities in Great Britain.

The losses are greater in large shops where people can handle books at will. Because of the reduction in the number of employes, it is no longer possible to supervise the shops properly. Books are not so plentiful and are more expensive than in prewar days.

The thieves display remarkable cunning, booksellers say. "Only the keenest observers can catch them at it," one dealer said. "They stroll along the shop, taking books out of the shelves, two or three at a time. But when they take out three books, they return only two and where two have been browsed over just one will be put back. The other is slipped under a coat, hidden in a newspaper or, if the person is a woman, dropped into a handbag."

HAYS, Kas.—After Alf Landon had discussed the meat situation with Dr. C. D. Blake of Hays, and indicated some additional meat wouldn't be out of place in the Landon diet, Blake sent him a big female chinchilla rabbit, suggesting he try that for a meal.

Alf wrote back that the rabbit didn't relieve his hunger one bit since his children, Nancy and John, promptly appropriated it as a pet. So Dr. Blake sent Landon a big chinchilla buck and suggested that the Landons grow their own rabbits.

Allied Strategy

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill Have Doped Major Moves Acceptably So Far.

By DAMON RUNYON

I SUPPOSE you heard or have read Prime Minister Churchill's explanation of the reason for the success of the Allies' strategy in this war, said source being, as you perhaps know, President Roosevelt, with Mr. Churchill himself probably often calling the signals.

Mr. Churchill said the wisdom of the founders of the American Constitution led them to associate the offices of commander-in-chief with that of the presidency of the United States. In this way, he stated, they were following precedents successful in the case of George Washington.

Now while most precedents of the founding fathers were sound, and might well be applied today other than just oratorically, this particular one has not always been wisdom. It could not have been 100 percent wisdom only if the founding fathers had been able to make certain that all our presidents would be George Washington — soldier and statesman.

Lacking the faculty of peering into the future, the old boys probably figured that any man capable of heading the nation would surely know how to also run a job lot of armed forces. So they hooked up the two offices and have since probably often turned over in their graves at the spectacle of some of our Presidents trying to play both ends in time of war. We have had several terrific flops in this respect.

WE have never found another George Washington. The combination of the jobs of bossing the nation and the armed forces in war has at times produced the most deplorable confusion. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, with the assistance of Mr. Churchill may pass into history as the confirmation of the wisdom mentioned by the British premier, but we will have to wait a while for that decision.

At the moment he seems a success, with the North African victory to his (or their) credit, and you cannot knock a success. I must report that the fraternity of armchair strategists, or civilians who like to map out the campaigns, preferably on tablecloths, feel they have been vindicated as President Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill are both civilians. At least they are not professional soldiers.

President Roosevelt is even less of a soldier than Mr. Churchill. The latter is a descendant of the Duke of Marlborough. He always has dabbled in military strategy and may have seen some active service in his youth, though not enough to qualify him as a pro. Yet between them, these civilians have probably laid out most of our strategy in World war II since the United States entered the conflict.

I assume that they accept the advice and counsel of the many able military and naval experts around them, but there is reason to believe that certain major aspects of the general plan are all theirs, and some of it against the judgment of the professionals. Many of the latter, especially Americans, are dissatisfied despite Mr. Churchill's assurances with the strategy that has diverted much of our strength to Europe and Africa leaving us to fight a war with Japan with a comparatively minor force.

PRESIDENT Roosevelt takes his title of commander-in-chief very seriously, as is shown by his frequent conferences on strategy and his effort to keep in close touch with his soldiers and sailors, individually and collectively. He always seems to find time to confer an individual decoration, and his visits to camps and naval bases here and abroad are now historic. He likes to talk with the officers and men and displays real interest in them.

Woodrow Wilson did not attempt to function quite as practically in the role in World war I. He was not above playing the politics that has always made the association of the office of commander-in-chief with the presidency something less than wisdom, but he let his high officers run the practical side, especially the strategy. Our greatest washout was Abraham Lincoln, though Madison and Polk and McKinley were pretty fair bumblers in their respective wars, too.

But Lincoln was a pain in the neck to his generals until he found Ulysses S. Grant. He meddled with Gen. McClellan's plan to the extent of withdrawing some of Mac's troops to cover Washington, thus exposing the federal rear. It was only by strategy of his own that McClellan checked Lee's victorious army, and oddly enough, Lee, a gentle, patient man, also had a president to contend with. He finally had to order Jeff Davis to get off the field and stay in the Confederate capitol.

Alexander's Red Band

By H. W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK—One of the first recorded military uses of camouflage is credited to Alexander the Great by the Journal of the New York Botanical Garden.

Alexander purchased a quantity of red dye for his invasion of Persia in 330 B. C. The dye may have come from the madder plant, whose roots are still used for the red pigment. Or it may have come from kermes, an insect found on Asiatic oaks.

One night before a battle, Alexander had the clothing of a large number of his fighters spotted with the red dye. His purpose was not to deceive the eyes of the Persians but their minds. Usually there was only one large red spot, and it was at a place where a man might have been wounded.

The idea seems to have been to mislead the Persians into thinking that Alexander's soldiers had been pretty well damaged in fighting the previous day, with little opportunity to have their hurts properly cared for. This was supposed to make the Persians careless in attack.

Alexander won the fight.

British Poll Rates Russia at Head of War to Date

These attitudes are revealed in [illegible] by the British Institute [illegible] Opinion which invited [illegible] voters to rank the four [illegible] countries in the order of their [illegible] contribution to the war so far.

From the results it is clear [illegible] in expressing their views, [illegible] were thinking of actual [illegible] rather than of war pro[illegible] or potential production. [illegible] opening of a land invasion [illegible] Europe would undoubtedly [illegible] their present estimates.

The survey asked the British people:

"In your opinion, which country has so far made the greatest contribution toward winning the war—Russia, Britain, the United States, or China?"

The vote is:

Russia	50%
Britain	42
China	5
United States	3

Most of the interviewing in the survey was completed before Prime Minister Churchill's address to congress in Washington in which he emphasized the magnitude of the war burden Russia is carrying in comparison to Britain or the United States.

Look for Peace Soon

Meanwhile, the majority of the British people are taking a fairly optimistic view on the probable length of the war.

British Institute surveys just completed show that nearly six Britons out of every ten (56 per cent) think the war will be over in 18 months or less, although about one-sixth think it will last three years or more.

However, the British estimates are not as optimistic today as they were last January. At that time a British Institute survey found that virtually half (49 per cent) thought the fighting would be over in a year. At present only 34 per cent look for an end to the war that soon.

The latest results are:

U. S. INDICTS STEEL COMPANY IN PITTSBURGH

Carnegie-Illinois Accused in Senate Investigation.

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, May 29—A federal grand jury indicted the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation yesterday on a charge of "knowingly and willfully" concealing material facts from government agencies in connection with a senate committee investigation of complaints that the company furnished sub-specification steel on war contracts.

The indictment charged that "the defendant company during the late evening hours of March 16 and the early morning hours of March 17, 1943, did knowingly and willfully remove surreptitiously" from the company's files reports of physical tests made at its Irvin works between January 1, 1942 and March 16, 1943. The Irvin works is located near Dravosburg, Pa.

The jury declined to indict four Carnegie-Illinois employes against whom indictments were asked in a presentment filed with Judge Nelson McVicar yesterday.

FAIR EMPLOYMENT BOARD IS SET UP

President Creates New Group To Replace Old Plan.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—President Roosevelt yesterday tossed overboard an old committee on fair employment practice and set up another designed to insure that persons of every race, creed, color national origin may have an opportunity to participate in the war effort without discrimination.

At the head of the new agency he placed Monsignor Francis J. Haas, dean of the school of social science of Catholic university in Washington. The educator was a member of the original national labor board and has been a special conciliator for the labor department since 1935. The White House said he had helped settle some 1,500 labor disputes.

An executive order setting up the new committee gives the chairman authority to appoint personnel and "power to promulgate such rules and regulations as may be appropriate or necessary to carry out the provisions of this order."

The Chief Executive decreed that hereafter all contracting agencies of the government shall include in all contracts a provision obligating the contractor not to discriminate against any employe or job applicant because of race, creed, color or national origin and requiring him to include a similar provision in all subcontracts.

Ohio Tires Wear Out Rapidly

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—Some 50 per cent of the war workers in Ohio expect their tires to be worn out by the end of the year, the federal works agency reported, predicting a "crises in the tire situation."

A survey of 55,000 car owners conducted at 59 Ohio war industries by the Ohio planning survey in cooperation with the public roads administration of the FWA and the highway traffic advisory committee to the war department revealed the following estimate.

Some 18 per cent of owners gloomily anticipate their tires will fail before July 1, while 32 per cent give their rubber until the latter half of 1943.

Investigators termed the Ohio analysis "conservative," since studies made at 78 establishments in nine other states which were not specified showed relatively worse tire conditions.

On the basis of the findings, the investigators said "a high percentage of tires on automobiles owned by war workers will evidently require recapping or replacement during the latter part of 1943. This, coupled with the likelihood that the production of synthetic rubber will not be in full swing before sometime in 1944, appears certain to produce a crisis in the tire situation before the end of the current year."

The studies showed that 12 per cent of the cars reported had no spare tire and that in the case of approximately half the vehicles which had five tires, the extra tire had less than 4,000 miles of service remaining.

The investigators predicted "the situation will remain critical after the crisis is passed, since synthetic rubber production will apparently not be able to provide enough rubber for civilian needs before late in 1944, while the demand for tires and tubes will continue to be high for an indefinite period."

Conservation measures recommended included speeding up the recapping services, continuing car sharing programs, and low operating speed regulations.

ROBERT G. HALDEMAN RECEIVES COMMISSION

Made An Ensign at Navy Midshipmen's School.

Robert G. Haldeman of 588 Girard avenue has been commissioned an ensign, D-V (G), in the United States Navy following completion of a four months' training course at the midshipmen's school in Notre Dame university, South Bend, Ind. He is now at his Girard avenue home on leave visiting his father, S. G. Haldeman, and wife, Mrs. Marcella Haldeman of Cleveland.

Ensign Haldeman was inducted into the Navy on May 24, 1942 at Great Lakes Naval Training station, Ill., where he received his naval boot training. After completion of this primary training he was given the rank of Yeoman 3rd class. He then was stationed at New Orleans for six weeks, following which he served seven months in the bureau of personnel, Washington, D. C.

Ensign Haldeman graduated from Harding High school in the class of 1935 and later worked in the accounting department of the Marion Steam Shovel company. His father, S. G. Haldeman, is one of the oldest active employes in the Shovel Co. organization. Ensign Haldeman's wife is employed in army ordnance service with headquarters in Cleveland.

Ensign Haldeman was among more than 1,000 midshipmen to be graduated Thursday from the Midshipmen's School.

Speakers at the graduation exercises were Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, president of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass., and Capt. H. P. Burnett, U. S. N., commanding officer of the Midshipmen's School.

This Memorial Day Has Greater Meaning

Memorial Day this year means more than it has during the past generation. It finds America again defending the principles so many have died to save.

There will be now graves of our soldier dead that cannot be decorated. They are in far corners of the earth—but none-the-less important because of that.

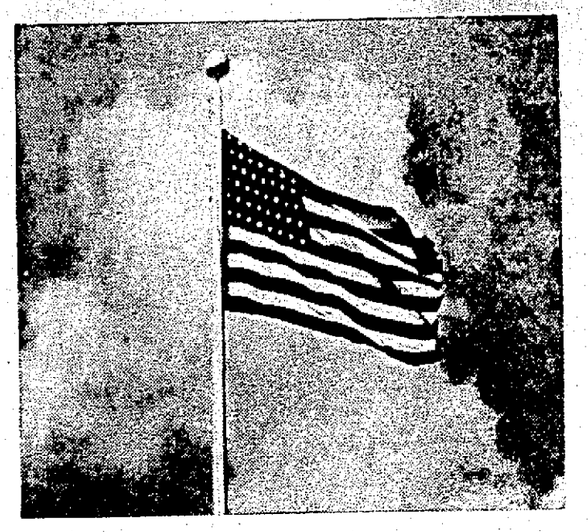
Decoration Day

★★★ IN HONOR OF AMERICA'S HEROES



This Year We Honor the Heroic Dead and the Living

They are never far from our thoughts. Veterans of World War I have keen memories of their long service—many of them, as well as their sons and daughters, are now in uniform. One day is not enough in which to do them honor nor can we be too grateful for the service they have rendered and are rendering.

On the Land — on the Sea and in the Air

We at home can also serve—not for honor or glory—by close and unselfish devotion to duty in whatever activity for which we are best fitted—seeing to it that they lack nothing that will bring the preesnt war to a quick and successful conclusion.

Philippines — Solomons — Aleutians — Tunisia

These and other names will be added to the list of heroic actions celebrated in our history. Lexington to Yorktown—Lake Erie to New Orleans—Fort Sumter to Appomattox—Havana to Santiago—Chateau Thierry to the Argonne. Never has American Spirit been lacking and never will it be in the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave.

DECORATION DAY

This is a truly memorable Decoration Day. For many years now, on this occasion we have honored those who fought valiantly in past years. Today we honor those who fight TODAY, as well, under the glorious red-white-and blue.

On the LAND • On the SEA • And in the AIR

See them march to war! The sons and brothers, husbands and nephews, from our own homes. Their marching feet, together with the treads of tanks on the land—the prows of ships on the sea—and the wings of planes in the air—make a pattern around the world. A pattern by which new freedom shall be cut for men and women, boys and girls everywhere to wear joyously; a pattern which by the same token, shall prove the fascist's shroud, wherever he may lurk!

Miss Betty Moore and Lieut. Mathis Married at Berea

MRS. BRUCE L. MATHIS

TALL vases filled with white peonies and foliage adorned the altar in the First Methodist church at Berea for the wedding of Miss Betty June Moore of Cleveland and Lt. Bruce L. Mathis yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The pastor, Rev. John D. Green, read the double ring service which was preceded by an organ program of nuptial music played by Miss Bonita Olson of Berea, cousin of the bridegroom.

Attending the wedding from Marion were the bride's father, Eugene H. Moore and Mrs. Moore of 265 Bellefontaine avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Van Atta of near Edison and daughter, Mrs. Robert Minard of Newport, R. I.

The date marked the 33rd anniversary of the wedding of the bride's father and mother. Mr. Moore gave his daughter in marriage and her sister, Miss Marjory Moore was her maid of honor and only attendant. George Hoch of Berea served as best man for Lt. Mathis who is the son of Mrs. Luther Mohler of Berea. Ushers were Kenneth Raub and Robert Ryder of Berea.

For her wedding Miss Moore chose a tailored suit of white gabardine with which she wore a large hat in a navy shade and matching accessories. Her corsage was a yellow throated orchid tied with stephanotis. The maid of honor was costumed in a two-piece suit of black sheer accented with white frilled collar and matching cuffs with which she wore a tiny hat of white starched lace. Her corsage was fashioned of gardenias.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a pair of earrings and Lt. Mathis presented the men of the wedding party with billfolds.

Mrs. Moore wore a dress of black sheer, with yoke inserts of copen blue and the blue was repeated in the trim of her large black hat. The bridegroom's mother was costumed in black with blue trim and each wore a corsage of peach colored glads centered with rosebuds in a deeper shade.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mohler were hosts at an informal reception at their home and later Mr. and Mrs. Moore entertained with a dinner in the Bronze room at Hotel Cleveland. During the dinner the orchestra dedicated a number, "Stardust" to the bride and bridegroom.

Lt. Mathis and his bride came to Marion today enroute to Hondo, Texas, where Lt. Mathis is an instructor at the Hondo Army Air Force Flying school. The bride chose for traveling a brown pinstripe silk seersucker suit with harmonizing accessories.

The new Mrs. Mathis until recently was passenger relations agent with the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines in Cleveland. She was graduated from Harding High school, attended Ohio university and graduated from the Darvas School of Fashion Art in Cleveland. Lt. Mathis attended the John Huntington Art school in Cleveland, and prior to joining the armed forces last June was a flight dispatcher with the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines at Cleveland.

Hard-Luck Dance Held in Barn by St. Mary Seniors

A "hard luck" dance given for the St. Mary seniors, by the other grades of the high school was held last night in the Huber barn on Greenwood street from 8 p. m. till 11 p. m. with about 80 merry-makers dancing to music from a juke-box attired in their oldest clothes. Large handkerchiefs were tied around necks and patches were sewed on in haphazard fashion to create the illusion of ragged clothing.

The room, located in the rear of the second floor, was decorated with bright colors and in each corner stood a straw boy and girl, dressed in rustic clothes. Benches and chairs were placed along the walls and signs on the walls informed the dancers that food and drinks would have to be purchased outside.

The dance was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Huber and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drake. Volunteers from the freshman and sophomore classes formed the decorating committee and the clean-up gang.

Opening of City's Parks Scheduled for Tomorrow

Funds Are Limited but Commission Prepares for Busy Season; Public's Cooperation Asked in Care of Property.

The tremendous and nearly impossible task of stretching $2,000 over a three-month period for the operation and maintenance of the city's three parks begins tomorrow with the formal opening of Garfield, Lincoln and Memorial parks.

In looking over plans for the opening of the naturally beautiful, but sadly neglected, park lands, one finds that two things about the opening are exactly the same as they have been for the last several years. They are, (1) the official opening will again be on Memorial day, and (2) city council this year again appropriated only $2,000 for operating the parks.

Probably to members of the park commission its getting to be an old story for with only $2,000 in the coffers there isn't much left to plan improvements after the usual expenses are paid.

War Comes First

But with a war on and everybody's No 1 objective being the winning of the war, the park commission isn't stirring up a hullabaloo nor are its members holding their head, as if grief-stricken over things that should be done in the parks but which cannot be done.

Like 99 per cent of all other war-time activities the commission is going ahead with its plans for the summer in a methodical manner, eliminating non-essentials and enlarging on essentials.

In recent weeks the board has been criticized for allowing park lawns to grow unattended until they now have grown to a height too great for the ordinary park lawn mower. But this situation again has not been the fault of the park commission, but is a result of continued spring rains and again the lack of sufficient funds to purchase new mowing equipment. Late last year all but one of three mowing machines broke down and mechanics at that time told the board the machines were beyond repair.

To facilitate the mowing in the parks this summer, the board has arranged for the one machine to be moved from park to park. A trailer for hauling the machine was completed recently and the machine already has been in operation at two parks.

A large tractor mower of the type used on farms and an operator will probably be hired to cut the present growth of grass, the board indicated.

If a new mowing machine is obtained this summer one member of the board indicated it would be one that can be moved handily from one park to another.

In urging residents of the city to make frequent use of the parks this summer the board likewise urged park visitors to adopt a program preservation of park property and observation of park regulations.

For many years vandalism has been one of the major problems faced by the park commission. The commission reported that since the parks were closed last year fireplaces have been dismantled, shutters on the concession stand at Lincoln park have been pried open, benches in all three parks have been damaged and locks to various buildings have been tampered with. At Lincoln park a croquet court wicket set in an eight-inch slab of concrete was pulled completely out of the ground.

A reduction in vandalism in the parks is expected this year with organization of the city recreation commission and supervised recreation in each of the three parks.

Caretaker Employed

Since April 1 the board has met six times. Business handled at these meetings included rehiring of caretakers for each of the parks. Rehired were Charles Straw at McKinley park, Ed Andrews at Lincoln park and W. T. Niles at Garfield park.

Also the board has decided that no charges will be made for use of picnic tables in the parks but that charges will be made for use of the shelter houses in Lincoln park. A $2.50 fee will be charged for use of the larger of the two shelters and $1.50 will be charged for the smaller building. All other equipment will be free.

As in previous years caretakers on duty in the park will arrange for reservations for picnic facilities. No charge will be made for this service.

Picnickers desiring wood or coke for use in the park furnaces can obtain this material from the caretakers at a small charge.

World War II Veterans Speak at Galion Plants

Special to The Star

GALION, May 29—For the purpose of impressing the workers in Galion factories of the necessity of their production of the tools of war, men of the fighting forces who are veterans of the present war, addressed workers at the Galion Metallic Vault Co. and the North Electric Manufacturing Co. Thursday.

The men appeared here under the auspices of the navy department. The group consisted of men back from combat service and included Lieut. (j.g.) H. L. Derby Jr., Andrew B. Clark Jr., seaman second class; Sgt. John Wright of the U. S. Marine Corps; and Chief Boatsmain's Mate Lloyd Carter, all of Cleveland.

Their message to the Galion workers in these plants was clear and simple: Get the war materials to the fighting fronts.

MEETING AT LARUE

When the LaRue Baptist missionary society met at the church Wednesday, Mrs. Wilbur Miller read the scripture, and prayers were offered by Mrs. Orton White, Mrs. E. Debolt and Mrs. Frank Shuster. Mrs. J. W. Freshour was elected treasurer in the absence of Mrs. Joe Johnson, who is seriously ill. Mrs. J. W. Hoagland and Mrs. Freshour were appointed to purchase the White Cross quota, and Mrs. Debolt read a letter from Miss Lung of Dayton. A program of readings, in charge of Mrs. Debolt, was given by the following: Mrs. Wilbur Miller, Mrs. Hoagland, Mrs White, Mrs. J. Greenwood, Mrs. B. Drake, Mrs. S. Blue and Mrs. John Zieg. A prayer circle concluded the meeting. The next meeting will be an all-day session June 23 at the home of Mrs. Freshour.

Since start of the fat salvage campaign last summer, housewives have turned over to the government more than 45 million pounds of kitchen drippings. The chart shows what the monthly salvage means in terms of providing the glycerine needed to fire guns. One pound of fat produces glycerine for 1.3 pounds of gunpowder.

LEGISLATURE READY TO QUIT

Eighty-Fourth Session Expected To Come To Close by Tonight.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, May 29—The 95th general assembly, which convened Jan. 4 for what many thought would be a routine session, sped toward adjournment today after nearly five months' work.

Leaders cleared the lawmakers to complete their work by tonight when they plan to recess until June 8, the sine die adjournment date.

It was indicated when Speaker Robert M. McCulloch of the Wapakoneta newspaper men: "I intend to put out 24 tomato plants and live in Piqua.

The 1943 general assembly quit Monday, May 1, 1941, and adjourned sine die May 27.

Of 1,000 bills introduced in the session, approximately 180 have been enacted, and a score of others are in the process of enactment.

There still was a possibility of action on a bill to remove the state from central war time to the faster eastern war time. The measure is being held in the rules committee, whose members said it would be brought up for a vote in the senate if they received assurance it would be passed by the house.

The house and senate passed 17 bills yesterday and intended to devote today to settlement of disputes over amendments, including those to the $369,116,129 biennial appropriation measure.

Legislation which received final approval yesterday included:

Providing prison sentences for agents and operators of the numbers or policy gambling racket;

Appropriating an additional $2,-500,000 to the elementary schools;

Creating a 21-member commission to draft plans for coping with post-war problems;

Requiring the state to provide $50 a year for tuition in any Ohio college for members of the armed forces after the war;

Allowing members of the armed forces to fish, hunt and trap without a license;

Increasing the municipalities' share of utility excise tax revenue allocated for poor relief;

Providing a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine or seven years' imprisonment for the theft of auto tires, tubes or gasoline during rationing;

Making U. S. citizenship a requirement for holding a civil service position;

Providing that owners of domestic fowls, worth $10 or more, may seek compensation from the county dog and kennel fund if the fowls are killed by dogs.

MARION TRUCK IN BUCYRUS ACCIDENT

Driver from Mansfield Injured Seriously.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, O., May 29—Tom Reed of Mansfield is in a serious condition in Bucyrus City hospital with a probable fractured skull and severe head lacerations. He was taken to the hospital at 5 p. m. yesterday in a semi-conscious condition after his head was caught between the door of the truck from which he was unloading merchandise and a passing truck on Gaylen street.

The street on which the accident occurred is unusually narrow and lies between a sidewalk and a railway track.

Reed was unloading the merchandise from a Central Fruit company truck of Mansfield at the Heckert Grocery. The driver of the other truck was C. Mann of 994 Adams street, Marion, and employe of the Commercial Motor Freight company in Marion.

According to police reports, Mann asked Reed to watch the open door of his truck as he passed. Reed, who had his head turned the other way, did not see how close Mann's truck was coming, and his head was caught between the two.

PLANS FOR FUTURE BOND SALES MADE

Victory Fund and War Savings Staffs Consolidated.

WASHINGTON, May 29—"As a result of the highly successful Second War Loan drive which brought 18½ billion dollars into the treasury in three weeks, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., announced today that the method of selling bonds through volunteer salesmen would be 'streamlined and amplified.'

As the first step, according to Mr. Morgenthau, the existing victory fund committee and war savings staffs in the various states will be combined into a single organization.

This consolidated organization will function under the direction of state chairmen who will report directly to the secretary of the treasury and will be responsible for the continuing sale of war savings bonds through the voluntary payroll allotment and other regular purchase plans. These state organizations will also be in charge of war loan drives and will concentrate on the sale of increasing amounts of bonds to individuals and to corporations.

In order to facilitate the sale of issues of government securities to commercial banks, mutual savings banks, insurance companies and government bond dealers, Mr. Morgenthau has authorized the Federal reserve banks as fiscal agents of the treasury to handle sales to these financial institutions separately.

"We arrived at this plan," the secretary said, "after consultation with the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, and the presidents of 12 Federal reserve banks. I believed that this new arrangement makes the best possible use of what we learned in the first two war loan drives.

"One of the chief considerations in setting up this improved plan was to make it possible for everyone to concentrate on the sale of bonds to individuals. We are already making great progress, having sold twice as many bonds to individuals in the second drive as in the first, and having exceeded the quota we set for individuals in the second war loan drive by nearly a billion dollars."

WAR EFFORT

grams entailing the maximum use of natural and industrial resources for military and civilian needs, the effective utilization of national manpower outside the armed forces, and the stabilization and adjustment of the civilian economy to wartime demands.

"If it's in the government, it's in the war mobilization picture."

This centralization of authority was hailed in congress by such men as Chairman Truman (D-Mo) of the senate war investigating committee, Republican Leader McNary of Oregon, Chairman Murray (D-Mont) of the senate small business committee and others.

But from Senator Austin (R-Vt) came the assertion that if Byrnes is to do a competent job he must have the greater statutory authority over manpower that is proposed in a compulsory control bill he and Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) have authored.

Opposes Compulsion

While Austin said the President's order appeared to put into effect many of the proposals of that bill, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said he hoped the President was not attempting to assume compulsory manpower control at this time.

"We need guidance and direction, but I am not in favor of complete regimentation because I feel a democracy of free men and women can win this war more quickly than a completely regimented people," Ferguson declared.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said that since Mr. Roosevelt appeared to be making Byrnes an "assistant president" in fact, the mobilization committee ought to meet frequently with the President to "resolve all of the disputed questions that arise in the domestic war effort without the public controversies that have marred that effort up to this time."

WORLDWIDE CO-OP PROPOSED AFTER WAR

By The Associated Press

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 29—A move to link the farmers of the world by means of an international organization of producer marketing cooperatives was advanced today by delegates of more than 30 countries attending the United Nations food conference.

Advocates of the cooperative movement—a system of business enterprises owned and operated by the people they serve—agreed at a special meeting to ask the parley to recommend, in its final resolutions, that an international agency be set up to help farmers organize.

Such an agency would be connected with the international agricultural authority which has been proposed at the conference as the mechanism for increasing world production, distribution and consumption of agricultural products.

Chinese Reds Send Good News for United Nations

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

One of the best pieces of news to come out of China in a long time is the formal declaration by the Chinese Communists that they will stand by the government "until Japan and her axis partners are defeated and construction of an independent, Democratic China is completed."

This announcement is tantamount to a pledge that the Red armies in the field—and there are several of them—will fight beside Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's forces to the end. It means on the face of it that settlement of the dangerous political fight between the Communists and the central government may be postponed until the conclusion of the war.

That's of the utmost importance not only to China but to the cause of the United Nations. Sooner or later there must be a show-down between the Reds and the Central government to determine whether the Communist party shall be permitted to exist along with General Chiang's Kuomintang (Nationalist) party, which is the only one recognized officially.

Trouble Now Fatal

Should this show-down come while the war is in progress it might easily produce a catastrophe. This quarel is no academic conflict of words. There have been many clashes at arms between the Communist-led armies and the central government forces, notably in the summer of 1940 when bloody dissension invaded the Chinese ranks along the Chino-Jap battle-front.

China's gravest hour of trial in her conflict with the Japanese lies immediately ahead. She is woefully weak from every point of view. About her only resources are manpower (for which she lacks equipment) and unlimited courage and determination. Her task is to keep herself from being knocked out pending the time when the allies can give her adequate aid.

The present Jap offensive along the Yangtze towards Chungking may provide the crucial test. Should the Nipponese capture Chungking and overrun the surrounding territory it might to all intents end the Chino-Japanese war.

Much Work Ahead

The period of emergency may last for some months before the United Nations can launch a major blow at the Japanese on the continent and thus relieve the pressure on the Chinese. As things now stand, the United Nations will have to open up a route to Chungking by ousting the Nipponese from Burma. Unless circumstances change, this means a great water-borne invasion of Burma from India, and that can't come before the end of the monsoon deluge in the fall, as this column has pointed out before.

The minimum time that the Chinese will have to shift largely for themselves, except for increased help from the allies in the way of air power, therefore would seem to be some six months. The United Nations may undertake operations in the southwest Pacific which will act as a deterrent to the Japs on the continent, but these operations can scarcely halt the Jap efforts to complete their conquest of China while the allies are engaged in defeating Hitler.

Thus the solidarity of the Communist and the central government forces at this juncture may be the link with victory.

It's interesting that the Communist declaration coincides with Moscow's action in dissolving the comintern which years ago labeled itself the "general staff of world revolution." In connection with its promise of support for the government, the central executive committee of the Chinese Communist party indorsed the Moscow move as hastening the defeat of the axis powers.

one potential route of allied invasion.

Greeks Kill 40 Italians

A statement by the Soviet information bureau said Greek patriots had killed 40 Italians in southern Greece and that several German planes had been burned by guerrilas in a raid on an airdrome.

Associated press reports from Stockholm said the Germans were reinforcing garrisons in western Europe with their best motorized columns.

On the eastern front, Stockholm reported partisans continued to cripple German supply lines. Otto Schulz, military expert writing in the Berlin Borsen Zeitung, said:

"We never can be sure our food and ammunition will get to the front. We even have to use some of our front line troops to fight the partisans."

The Yugoslav government-in-exile in London received news of a stinting new defeat inflicted on axis forces in Montenegro and Bosnia.

German, Italian and Ustachi troops were reported thrown back 13 miles near the town of Foca, on the Drina river, by guerrillas opposing the recently launched axis campaign which was heralded as a cleanup of patriotic resistance. Farther south, axis troops were said by Swiss dispatches to have been forced into a slight withdrawal by Gen. Draja Mihailovic's men.

WM. F. DUTT DIES AT COUNTRY HOME

Passes Away After Week's Illness; Funeral Tuesday.

William F. Dutt, 77, farmer of the Frey-Mt. Olive road northwest of Green Camp, died in his home at 5 a. m. today. He suffered from a heart ailment and had been seriously ill one week.

Born Aug. 12, 1865 in Pleasant township, he was a son of George and Sarah Barth Dutt, the father a native of Alsace Lorraine, France and the mother of Pennsylvania. April 10, 1902 he married Miss Sarah R. Wolfinger in Green Camp.

Surviving with the widow are two daughters, Mrs. Mildred Decker of Kenton and Mrs. Marie Rothfuss of west of Green Camp, and a granddaughter, Marilyn Decker. He was the last of a family of nine children.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 3 p. m., fast time, in the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home on East Center street by Rev. T. A. Ballinger of the Green Camp and Mt. Olive Methodist churches. Burial will be in Marion cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Americans Split Last Remnants of Japanese Forces

By The Associated Press

American troops were reported blasting out last-ditch Japanese remnants hidden in mountain fox holes above the fogline in the 19-day-old battle of Attu island today, and Washington sources declared the final splitting up process was under way.

Navy reports indicated that the most intensive American attacks were developing along two snow-bound ridges between lakes in the northeast corner of the island, where the Japanese have been driven back against the sea around Chichagof harbor.

U. S. patrols also jabbed at enemy defenses on a third ridge extending eastward from Chichagof valley.

In the southern zone of the Pacific war theater, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators dropped 19 tons of bombs on three Japanese airdromes in the vicinity of Wewak, New Guinea.

Flying through severe storms, the raiders left many fires raging and all returned safely to base.

Eight Japanese bombers, escorted by six Zeros, dropped 50 bombs on the allied air base at Nillingimbi, on Australia's north coast 300 miles east of Darwin, but a communique said the attack caused little damage and no casualties.

Spitfires met the Japanese raiders at 15,000 feet and shot down three bombers for certain and damaged others. Two allied planes were lost.

On the Burma front, RAF bombers flying from India set big fires in a heavy assault on Mandalay, Kipling's storied temple city whose fire-blackened ruins are now occupied by the Japanese, and raked enemy airfields, river transport and troops in widespread attacks.

ATTU

ly nicked the tip of his boot sole. He told this story:

"On the third day we started up a ridge with orders to clean up the snipers there. It was at about 3,000-foot elevation.

"A sniper and machine gunner slowed us up at about 1,000 feet, where the heavy snow began. We never did find those two, and didn't know what happened to them.

"Then we kept on advancing. It was steep and rocky and slippery. We couldn't spot the Japs. we could see about 20 yard clearly, then it was all haze. The sound of gunfire was the only clue to had to them.

"We finally came out on top. The commander wanted a gun knocked out on our flank. Another sergeant and me went over. We couldn't get close enough to see. We got a mortar to try to knock it out, but got hit with enemy crossfire. The foot wound didn't stop me, but after another got me in the leg all I could do was get out."

POLICE CHIEF BARRED FROM BUYING GASOLINE

Pleasure Trip To Texas Brings Long Penalty.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 29—For making an automobile pleasure trip to Texas on "C" coupons, the regional office of price administration yesterday prohibited Police Chief Chester W. Eglin of Wellington (Lorain County), O., from purchasing any gasoline for one year.

Dennis F. Dunlavy, OPA hearings commissioner, who made the ruling effective June 1, said the chief signed an affidavit admitting the pleasure trip. Dunlavy said he made the penalty severe because he considered the violation flagrant in view of Eglin's official duties.

The hearings commissioner said the chief failed to return to his ration board 18 "C" coupons which expired in March, and used them with "A" coupons and new "C" coupons to drive with his wife for a visit to their daughter near Randolph Field, Tex., May 2-16.

The "C" coupons were granted for official police driving, Dunlavy said. In barring Eglin from using any coupons for a year, Dunlavy said the problem of obtaining transportation for the chief was one for Wellington to solve, and that it might, if it desired, provide Eglin with an automobile and gasoline.

Says Purpose Of Food Conference Not Made Clear

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion, representing the Eighth Ohio district, is at Hot Springs, Va., where the United Nations food conference is now in session, and has announced he will remain there until the close of the conference to observe the proceedings as best he can, although barred from attending executive sessions. Congressman Smith has informed The Star that he will mail reports of his observations for publication. One of this series of communications appears below.

• • •

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 28—Just what is the "United Nations" Conference on Food and Agriculture" that is now being held in Hot Springs, Va.? Who called it? What motivated it? What are its ostensible objectives and its real objectives?

First, which are the nations participating? There are 44 of them. Mexico and practically all the South American countries; Russia, China, Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Canada, England, New Zealand, Australia and others. The number of delegates from each country varies from one, as in the case of Peru, to ten for China.

The United States, Russia and Canada have each respectively six delegates, while Britain and Brazil have each eight.

In addition to the delegates there is a long string of advisers, experts, and secretaries accompanying them, numbering in all upwards of 250 persons.

The entire hotel here was taken over by the Federal government for holding this conference and for accomodating the personnel attending it. Lobbies in it have been paneled off to provide rooms for holding the meetings of the numerous groups.

The United States state department is responsible for calling this conference.

Just what the avowed purpose of this meeting may be is at the moment not clear to me, as well as some of the delegates.

The subjects being considered, or which it is claimed are being considered, are not confined to merely food and agriculture but they are so numerous and comprehensive as to include just about everything that touches the lives of practically all the people of the earth from the cradle to the grave.

WILLYS TO RESUME JEEP PRODUCTION

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., May 29—Jeeps for the armed forces will begin rolling off the assembly line at the Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. plant here again Tuesday, after a week of idleness forced by the labor dispute at the Spicer Manufacturing Corp. which stopped the flow of axles to the jeep plant last Tuesday.

J. W. Frazer, Willys-Overland president, announced today plans for resumption of jeep production, following settlement of the dispute which caused the Spicer holiday. Frazer emphasized that there was no labor difficulty at the Willys plant.

DIES COMMITTEE CALLS HEARING ON JAP CAMPS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—The Dies committee announced yesterday it would start public hearings here June 7 on reports of its field investigators that Japanese in United States relocation camps are being pampered and that thousands are being released without proper surveillance.

Robert E. Stripling, committee secretary, said officials of the war relocation authority which supervises the 10 relocation camps containing approximately 106,000 interned Japanese, will be asked to testify.

Committee investigators reported an average of 26 per cent of all internees questioned acknowledged that they were not loyal to the United States and professed first allegiance to Japan.

LEWIS MEETS UMW POLICY COMMITTEE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—John L. Lewis scheduled a meeting with the policy committee of his United Mine Workers today as soft coal operators and union leaders resumed bargaining negotiations on the knotty portal-to-portal pay issue.

Lewis, UMW president, will report to the committee following a morning conference with representatives of the mine owners.

The miners were reported to be sticking to their demand for time and a half pay for 90 minutes a day of underground travel, which would add about $2.25 to the underground worker's daily wage.

The operators' offer proposed pay for 48 minutes of underground travel time, which would amount to 80 cents daily at straight pay or $1.20 at time and a half.

The war labor board four days ago ordered the UMW and the operations. A truce between the UMW and the operators is scheduled to expire at midnight Monday.

DUNKIRK PASTOR'S SON PLANE VICTIM

Petty Officer Oliver Gambill One of Six Killed.

DUNKIRK, O., May 29—Petty Officer Second Class Oliver Gambill, 21, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Gambill of Dunkirk, was one of six men killed in the crash of a twin-engined bomber at the Lake City, Fla., naval air station after the completion of a routine flight last night.

According to an Associated Press report, the plane crashed in a woods adjacent to the air field. Navy officials at noon today had not completed their investigation and cause of the mishap had not been announced.

Gambill, a radioman, entered the Naval air corps June 29, 1942. He graduated from Hanover High school in Licking county and attended Ohio Wesleyan university before enlisting in the corps.

He was born Dec. 13, 1921, in North Carolina. His father is pastor of the Dunkirk Methodist church.

Surviving with the parents are a twin brother, Seaman First Class Milburn Gambill, now stationed in Hawaii; another brother, Petty Officer Third Class True Gambill, whose station is unknown, and a sister, Marie, at home.

According to word received today by the parents, the body will be brought to the Keiper funeral home here soon. Date of the funeral will not be set until the arrival of the body. The service will be held, however, in the Dunkirk Methodist church with Rev. Donald Timmerman of Bellefontaine and Dr. Robert O. McClure of Lima officiating. Burial will be made in the Dunkirk cemetery.

Braves and Phils Find Rocky Road

There Are Indications They May Not Be Wonder Teams After All.

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It may be a little early to say the honeymoon is over for the bewildering Boston Braves and the nip-and-tuck Phillies, but off the developments of recent days there are indications the bride and groom are getting ready to start fighting over the bill, anyway.

This is not to say the Phils and Bostons are about to nose-dive right out of the stratosphere and head back to their old stomping grounds in the cellar. They'd have a tough time getting past Jimmy Wilson's woeful Chicago Cubs and Frankie Frisch's pathetic Pittsburgh Pirates.

But when the Braves bowed to the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in 10 innings yesterday, and the Phils blew a five-run lead to hand the Cincinnati Reds an 11-8 win, it marked the fourth loss in the last five trips to the post for both the Bostons and the Quaker City "Darlings."

The most remarkable thing about the Braves' loss to the Cards was that they even made Max Lanier look like a pitcher. Max lasted less than two frames his last time out and went only six the time before.

The Cleveland Indians climbed up to a first-place tie with the Washington Senators in the American league by belting Boston's Red Sox 5-2 behind Jack Salveson's steady 10-hit hurling. The Nats and St. Louis Browns were idle.

The New York Yankees broke their five-game losing streak with a 2-1 edge over the Tigers, but Hank Borowy's jinx over the Detroits had to be extra-hot to do it. The sophmore right hander, who downed the Detroits four times in a row last year, tossed an eight-hitter. Russ Christopher went the whole way to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 5-2 win over the Chicago White Sox.

The New York Giants moved to sixth place in the National league by clouting the Cubs 3-1 behind Harry Feldman's tight elbowing.

A wild pitch with the bases loaded and a homer by Dixie Walker produced four runs for Brooklyn in the first inning against Pittsburgh and it was no trick for the Dodgers to coast from there to a 6-2 win over the Bucs.

Top Three in AA Win To Hold Their Places

By The Associated Press

Indianapolis, Toledo and Columbus all scored victories last night to maintain control of the first three positions in the American association baseball race as St Paul beat Louisville twice to emerge from last place.

The Colonels, suffering setbacks of 6 to 2 and 3 to 1, skidded into the cellar berth while the Saints took over seventh place with a one game lead. The rest of the standings was unchanged.

East Tech After New Record

By The Associated Press
By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—Cleveland East Tech's cinder stars have a chance to write a new and glowing chapter today in Ohio's high school track-field record book.

If they can win the class A title—and there's no one in sight who appears capable of preventing 'em—the sixth city speedsters will become the first team in history to take the major laurels five times in a row. And on top of that, it will be their tenth state track title, a hefty total in view of the fact that no other school has been able to win more than five times in the 35 years of competition.

Right now East Tech is tied with Columbus Central in consecutive wins, the Capital City team winning in 1927, 1929 and 1930 for four straight, while East Tech has been up there the last four years—its record marred only by a 1941 tie with Cleveland Heights.

Central missed its chance to make it five in a row by finishing second to Lakewood in 1931. Lakewood, also had a chance, winning in 1922, 1923 and 1924, only to have a 1925 second place before hitting the heights again in 1926. Toledo Central also came close, missing in 1911 despite two-year runs each side of that loss.

Only 10 schools have won the class A crown in the 35 years. Tech has nine wins, Toledo Scott and Lakewood five, Columbus Central and Toledo Central four each, Cleveland Shaw three, Columbus North two, and Columbus East, Cincinnati Hughes and Sandusky one each.

Xenia O. S. & S. O. Home will be sprinting for a Class B record, too, that of becoming the first to take that crown four straight years, but the Cadets are not as heavily favored as the East Tech team.

While the track and field squads demand the heavy attention today, championships in three other sports will be decided.

A new champion in both class A and class B baseball is assured, for none of the four finalists has ever put up a serious bid for the diamond title before. Finalists in class A are Springfield and Cincinnati Elder, and in class B are Ney and Leavittsburg.

In golf the Canton McKinley team was out front at the halfway mark with 318 strokes, 38 over par, but good enough for a four-stroke edge over Dayton Oakwood. The latter school boasted the first found Medalists, George Strickler, who fired a 72, two over par, to nose out Pete Dye of Urbana by a stroke. Marvin Kurjan of Youngstown Rayen was third with 76. The clubs have another 18-hole round on tap today and if they maintain yesterday's pace they'll be far under the 688 with which Sylvania won a year ago.

INDIANS MEET YANKS, HOPE TO HANG ON TO LEAGUE LEAD

Tribe Breaks Red Sox Jinx 5-2 To Regain Tie for First.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 29 — The Cleveland Indians shared first place with Washington today as they attempted to continue their mastery over—of all teams—the New York Yankees.

The Redskins haven't been beaten this year by the team that whipped them in 15 of 22 engagements last season. The Tribe wrested the league leadership from the Yanks last week-end when they swept the three-game series.

The Indians finally registered their initial win over the Boston Red Sox yesterday after four straight losses. The 5 to 2 triumph enabled them to move into a first place tie with the Washington Nationals, who were idle.

The victory was also the Tribe's first over southpaw Kendall Chase in more than two seasons.

Reds Confident as Dodgers Approach

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 29 — The Cincinnati Reds assumed a "chip on the shoulder" attitude as they lay in wait for the Brooklyn Dodgers to open a three-game series at Crosley Field today.

The rough and ready air the Queen City boys are sporting is the result of an around the clock beating they gave the Philadelphia Phillies in the last three days.

The Reds first took Bucky Harris' lads out under the lights and gave them a 1 to 0 trimming. The next day they shut them out 7 to 0, and yesterday, in one of those swing shift morning contests, the Reds spanked a trio of Philadelphia hurlers for 14 hits and a 11 to 8 victory to sweep the series.

The Phils opened yesterday's game with 5 runs in the first two innings. Johnny Vander Meer, who later complained of "the miseries" in his back, started on the mound for the Reds but was on his way to the showers before the Phils were retired in the first. He gave up three runs on two hits and four walks.

Vernon Stone replaced Vander Meer but was removed in the fourth for a pinch hitter. Other Cincinnati pitchers who saw service in the game were Joe Beggs and Clyde Shoun.

Bobo Newsom, who has won 5 and lost 1 this season, is Manager Leo Durocher's choice for Brooklyn mound duty today while Bill McKechnie is pinning his faith in Ray Starr.

Foxes and Groundhogs Found Using Same Den

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 29—That Union county foxes and groundhogs have taken on a spirit of conservation was indicated when they were found using the same den on the Chris Nicol farm, south of Marysville recently. When members of the Heart of Ohio Fish and Game Association dug out a fox den they captured six young foxes, an adult and young groundhog, all in the same hole. Sportsmen say it is rare that they den together.

KENTON, O., May 29—Nine half-gown fox were dug from a den under an old house on the Oscar Lotz farm, west of Kenton, Thursday and all were killed by the irate farmers. The mother fox escaped. Lotz said seven neighbors assisted him in digging to the fox and destroying them.

Mar-O-Del Ready for Holiday Golfers

Weather permitting, a large number of golfers are expected to play at the Mar-O-Del golf course Sunday and Monday. In recent weeks work has been progressing on green improvements and the roughs have been lowered to reduce golf ball losses to club members.

Operators of the course reported that, barring further rain, the course will be in tip-top shape for week-end and holiday play. No special events are scheduled for the two-day play.

MARTIN LEADS AA BATTERS WITH .435

Milwaukee Outfielder Gets 5 in 13 Trips.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, May 29—Herman Martin, Milwaukee's veteran fielder, collected eight hits in trips to the plate during the week to vault into the American Association hitting leadership with a gaudy .435 percentage.

Martin's batting rampage sent him to the top from the second place position he held last week with a .388. Last week's leader, Al Lyons of Kansas City, slumped from .405 to .348 and into fifth place.

Martin's rise made Milwaukee's dominance in the hitting parade all the more conclusive. The Brewers' have five men among the top ten.

Following Martin in the statistics computed through Wednesday's games were Jack Sturey of Columbus and Gil English of Indianapolis, each with .357; Greg Clarke of Milwaukee, .355; Lyons, .348; Joe Moore, Indianapolis, .339; Don Johnson and Ted Norbert of Milwaukee, each with .315; Tony York, Milwaukee, .311, and Al Zarilla, Toledo, .310.

The leaders are determined on the basis of 50 or more times at bat.

Lyons was the leader in runs batted in with 20, and York was ahead in total bases with 46 and with 28 and runs with 16. Norman maintained his lead in home runs with four.

Heading the pitching corps was John Whitehead of Toledo, who had won five games and lost none. John Hutchings and Bill Logan, both of Indianapolis, had three wins and no defeats. Emmett O'Neill of Louisville led in strikeouts with 28.

... Arnold and Ann Hard- ... in "Eyes in the Night" and ... Morgan, Richard Carlson ... Jean Rogers in "A Stranger ... Town" will start Thursday and ... through Saturday.

A blind detective and a "seeing eye" dog provide a novelty in mystery thrills in "Eyes in the Night". Arnold as the blind sleuth battles enemies in the darkness, relying on his sense of hearing, foils a spy ring and solves a murder, utilizing hearing, touch and instinct with which blind persons make up for sight.

"A Stranger in Town" starring Frank Morgan, Richard Carlson and Jean Rogers presents Morgan as a U. S. Supreme Court Justice who starts off on a duck hunting trip incognito. But before he fires a shot he finds himself involved with a small-town political ring, and spends his vacation helping Richard Carlson, who portrays a young mayoralty candidate, break it up. Jean Rogers is his pretty secretary who finds time to fall in love with Carlson during the busy campaign.

Two Ohioans Listed as Japanese Prisoners

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—The war department announced today the names of two Ohioans who are held as prisoners of war by Japan in an unstated camp. They are:

Blackanic, Pfc. Frank, Jr.—Mr. Frank Blackanic Sr., father, of Akron.

Ohio Shows Cagney Film

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" on Screen Through Monday; "Sgt. York" Coming.

Now showing at the Ohio theater and continuing through Monday is James Cagney and Joan Leslie in "Yankee Doodle Dandy." It is the film story of a great American who knew what it took to please a crowd, George M. Cohan. It tells the story of his life, his career, the songs he wrote and the inspiration he gave to others.

Cagney plays the role of Cohan and he fits it in every detail, although he attempts to resemble America's song and dance man only in mannerisms, briskness of speech and dancing agility.

Cohan's songs are played and one of the picture's biggest thrills is the presentation of the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt in recognition of having written "Over There" and "You're a Grand Old Flag."

Starting Tuesday and playing through Thursday is "Sergeant York" with Gary Cooper and Joan Leslie.

This is the real life story of Sergeant Alvin York, his entrance into the Army, his training, the decision that made world history and his private life. Gary Cooper has the role of Sergeant York. The thrills of the Tennessee mountaineer-soldier are shown as the story based on York's personal diary, unfolds and is climaxed by the capture of German troops that was recorded on Army records.

"Corregidor" starring Elissa Landi, Otto Kruger and Donald Woods will start Friday and continue for four days.

This film is a graphic and realistic account of actual events in the epic struggle for the great Philippine underground fortress.

Western Romance on Double Program at State Theater

Scheduled to show on the State theater screen Sunday and Monday are "Romance of the Range" with Roy Rogers and George "Gabby" Hayes, and "The Wife Takes a Flyer" starring Joan Bennett and Franchot Tone.

William Gargan and Irene Hervey will be featured in "Bombay Clipper" Tuesday and Wednesday. On the same bill is "Nice Girl" with Deanna Durbin and Franchot Tone.

"Danger in the Pacific" with Dick Foran and Leo Carrillo will move across the screen Thursday through Saturday along with "Thunder River Feud" featuring the Range Busters.

War Thriller Is Featured

"Stand By for Action" in Double Bill at Marion Theater.

"Stand By For Action," starring Robert Taylor, Charles Laughton and Brian Donlevy, and "The Meanest Man in the World," starring Jack Benny, and Priscilla Lane, with Rochester, will start at a midnight show Saturday at the Marion theater and continue through Monday.

"Stand By For Action" is a story of the thrills of battle and convoy duty in the Pacific. The action centers about an old destroyer on convoy duty which successfully beats off Jap war planes and destroys an enemy battleship.

"The Meanest Man in the World" brings Jack Benny disguised as a starving lawyer bent on making good in the worst sort of way.

"The Man in the Trunk" starring George Holmes and Lynne Roberts and Edward Arnold and Fay Bainter in "The War Against Mrs. Hadley" will share the billing on Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Man in the Trunk" is the story of a "friendly ghost."

"The War Against Mrs. Hadley" is literally the cross section of a woman's soul. Laughter and romance in the face of emergency in bustling wartime Washington all make the story of a woman who tried vainly to avoid being enmeshed in war conditions.

Russell Hayden in "A Tornado in the Saddle" and Lloyd Nolan and Carole Landis in "Manila Calling" will start Thursday and continue through Saturday.

"A Tornado in the Saddle" is an adventure tale revolving around a small gold rush which takes place in a frontier town.

"Manila Calling" shows a band of Americans and Filipinos capturing a radio station from the Japanese and in what lies they put it.

MARION SOLDIER HELD IN UNION COUNTY JAIL

Admits Being AWOL; Denies Auto Theft Charge.

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 29—Melvin Ray McMorrow, 25, of East Fairground street is held in the Union county jail and may either be charged with auto larceny or with being an Army deserter, according to Homer S. Roosa, Union county sheriff.

McMorrow was taken into custody near Marysville Thursday by Sheriff Roosa when he was caught driving a car stolen recently at Hannibal, Mo. Suspicion of the sheriff was aroused when he noticed the auto bore Missouri license plates heavily coated with mud. Questioned by Roosa, McMorrow admitted being AWOL from a California Army camp but denied he had stolen the auto.

Also being held in the Union county jail is Cpl. Don Spencer of the U. S. Marines. Cpl. Spencer, according to Sheriff Roosa, is AWOL from Camp LeJune, N. C. He was arrested at Milford Center where he had been staying for the last five weeks.

President J. R. Howe will confer baccalaureate degrees upon 79 seniors.

McKinley Memorial Transferred to State

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—The Ohio legislature has completed enactment of legislation transferring the William McKinley memorial, a 24-acre park at Canton, to the Ohio Archeological and Historical society.

The memorial now is administered by the William McKinley National Memorial association, and more than $100,000 in the association's treasury will be turned over to the state to help maintain the park.

The bill was introduced by Senator Robert A. Pollock (R-Stark) and originally provided for creation of a committee to accept the park in behalf of the state. The house changed the measure to provide for outright transfer.

The bill will become effective 90 days after it is signed by the governor.

Kilday Bill Killed by Senate Committee

Measure Regulating Draft Calls Tabled.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 29—The senate military affairs committee yesterday practically killed the Kilday bill which would have put selective service quotas on a state-wide basis, established induction categories with fathers last and set aside Manpower Director McNutt's recent work-or-fight order.

Without a dissenting vote, the committee agreed to "lay the bill on the table." Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) remarked that 900 times out of 1,000 a tabled bill never was brought up again.

"In fact you might say the bill was voted down," he said.

OHIO SENATE APPROVES POWER AS O.S.U. TRUSTEE

Vote on Governor's Secretary is 26 to 1.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 29—The Ohio senate, voting 26 to 1, confirmed last night the appointment of Don Power, secretary to Gov. Bricker, as a trustee of Ohio State university.

The only dissenting vote was raised by Sen. Maurice W. Lapsher (D-Mahoning) who remarked:

"I am rather surprised that we'd take politics into our state university in this time of war."

Sen. Frank F. Whittemore, Republican floor leader, replied that the comment was "downright cheap political sophistry," adding that Power was a public servant of good reputation and needed no defense.

Power's appointment was announced by the governor yesterday together with that of Warner Pomerene of Coshocton. Both terms are for seven years. Pomerene's appointment was confirmed yesterday afternoon.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"SHE'LL BE glad to see you, I know," I told Olina. I put up the receiver and turned back to Mary and Katharine with a question whirling around my brain.

"Are you sure, Mary—" I began, and hesitated. She caught my meaning instantly, and her ready laughter rippled out.

"Sure that Olina isn't hep to this racket?" she finished. "No, I'm not sure. She's never said a word, and she goes through all the conventions of solicitous inquiry. But I've noticed a devilish twinkle in her eyes sometimes, and wondered. You've evidently heard a Satanic lilt in her voice—or something. Come on, darling! spoon the lentils!"

I repeated what Olina had said, and Mary struck the flat of one hand into the palm of the other. "That ties it," she said. "She thinks she's guessed my fatal secret, and is having a good time for herself out of it. Well! I'm going to give her a good time for a few minutes or so. Just watch me!"

Mary's Artifice

She leaned forward in her chair, and opened a drawer of a cabinet which stood at her elbow, and which contained, I knew, all the little necessities of feminine cosmetic routine. Taking some tissue and cold cream from it, she looked into the mirror, and carefully removed every trace of her very moderate and artistically applied lipstick and rouge. Then she dusted some powder over her face, and put a faint shadow under her eyes. When she had put the things away again, she leaned her head against the back of the chair and twisted her face into so agonized an expression of pain that I involuntarily started toward her.

"Mary!" I exclaimed in alarm. Then, with the recognition of her marvelous histrionic power coming to me, I reached out my hands to her shoulders and shook them soundly.

"Ouch!" she said. Then she grinned impishly at me.

"I must be doin' all right," she said.

Katharine Is Amused

"You are," I told her, struggling to keep my own smile back, and failing, while a glance at Katharine told me that even her nervous dread of confronting Ruth Hayes in the early hours of the next morning had yielded to amusement at Mary's antics.

"Then don't you spoil my little game," she warned us, and scarcely had settled herself against her pillows again when a knock sounded on the door.

"I'll answer it," I told Katharine, and when I went to the door and opened it the length of the night chain, I saw Olina with the sturdy figure of an armed guard behind her. "Will you telephone the apartment, please Miss, when you're ready to return?" the man asked.

"Yes, I'll let you know in plenty of time," Olina told him, and as I undid the chain the man walked away, and she came through the door.

Olina Has a Complaint

She was facing Katharine and me, and had not yet taken a good look at Mary who had distorted her face into pain lines again, and immediately following her greeting of us she turned toward the door and shook her fist in the general direction of the retreating guard.

"If I have to have him at my heels much longer," she exclaimed, "I'm going down to Bellevue, and ask them to lock me in their most de luxe padded cell!"

"Not that he isn't a nice guard," she amended. "But if you'd been under the eyes of those 'protectors' all your life, and then had had a taste of what American liberty is like, you'd know how I feel about not being able to go out into the corridor without somebody with a gun tagging you. Mary! darling! what's the matter?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Dyspepsia.

IT NEEDS only a superficial review in your memory of those of your friends who are "dyspeptics" to realize that they are of a nervous, high-strung temperament, or else of a moody, sour disposition. It is natural to assume that they are that way because they have dyspepsia, but it would be much more accurate, from a scientific standpoint, to say that they have dyspepsia on account of their nerves.

Even dyspepsia due to organic disease of the stomach, such as ulcer, may fall into this class. We certainly do not know all the causes of ulcer, but it is notable that the victims tend to have a nervous disposition, and a stomach ulcer gets active under tension and stress.

We might expect that war would have an effect on such cases, and there are plenty of records to show that such is indeed the case. England, having been in the war longer than we have, has the most complete set of case histories. Many men were invalided home from the British Expeditionary Force. In one convoy of 238 men, 23 per cent were suffering from acute stomach ulcer, or from flare-ups of old, supposedly healed ulcers.

In a more comprehensive, later report it was recorded that in 15 per cent of all men invalided home, the cause was some form of dyspepsia, real or nervous in type. So burdensome did the situation become that it was debated whether a history of dyspepsia, existing over any length of time, would not be a cause for rejection for active duty.

An illuminating experience is that of London hospitals during air raids. The average number of cases of perforated ulcer per month in 1937, when all was relatively calm, was 20. During September and October, 1940, the first two months of heavy bombing, the rate rose to 80 per month. "The probable cause of the increase was anxiety," reads the report in the Lancet.

Lawson Hospital Report

The United States Army has had an equally serious experience, even though the troops had not been under gun fire. In the Lawson General hospital (an Army institution) 9 per cent of the patients admitted from Aug. 1, 1941, to May 1, 1942, were suffering from digestive disturbances—mostly ulcer or irritable colon. Major Donald Chamberlain, who makes the report, concludes: "The man with peptic ulcer is unfit for military service."

Nerves is generally given as the main cause, but of course Army food may play a role. "The Army diet is good, well prepared, well balanced, and far better in quality and quantity than the diets that a large number of the inductees had ever had in their lives," writes Major Chamberlain. "However, it is not a diet designed for special needs" — i.e., dyspepsia and ulcer.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

P.J.L.: Is there any cure for hysteria, and if so, what?

Answer: Doctors interested in psychological medicine have good results with psychic treatment.

R.H.W.: What is undulant fever? Is it contagious? Does anyone ever get over it?

Answer: Undulant fever is a chronic infection, something like typhoid fever, which is spread by contaminated milk. Although it often lasts a long time, complete recovery is the rule in most cases.

P.M.: Is it possible for bad teeth, such as in pyorrhea, to cause a stroke, or rheumatic heart, or both?

Answer: here is considerable difference of opinion on this subject. It seems likely that there is more possibility of focal infection of this kind lighting in the heart muscle than of causing a stroke, but both, I believe, are possible.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Wigwag

Frequently the Navy, the Coast Guard and the Signal Corps finds it expedient to relay messages without benefit of telephone, telegraph or radio. That is when the semaphore system is employed.

Like a single flag in the "Wigwag" system, the purchase of a War Savings Stamp or Bond, in itself has an infinitesimal effect upon the entire war effort, but when 130 million determined people set their minds to make our War Bond drives successful, the result is anything but infinitesimal. *U. Tillie the Toiler By Russ Westover

I WISH FAY WOULD JOIN THE W.A.A.C. THEN SHE'D BE AWAY FROM MAC
FAY, WHY DON'T YOU JOIN THE W.A.A.C.? WE'RE REPLACING MEN
ME?
NOW THERE'S A SOLDIER WHO'S WILD TO BE REPLACED, SO HE CAN FIGHT
WELL, —
SHOULD I JOIN THE W.A.A.C. JUST BECAUSE OF ONE MAN'S LITTLE WHIM?

Toots and Casper By Jimmy Murphy

CASPER, TAKE ME WITH YOU TO YOUR CLUB TONIGHT.
NO CAN DO, TOOTS—IT'S A MEN'S CLUB—NO WOMEN ALLOWED
I'LL FIX THAT!
I'LL BE WITH YOU IN A JIFFY, DEAR.
LET'S GET GOING, DEAR—YOU CAN INTRODUCE ME AS "MR. JONES"!

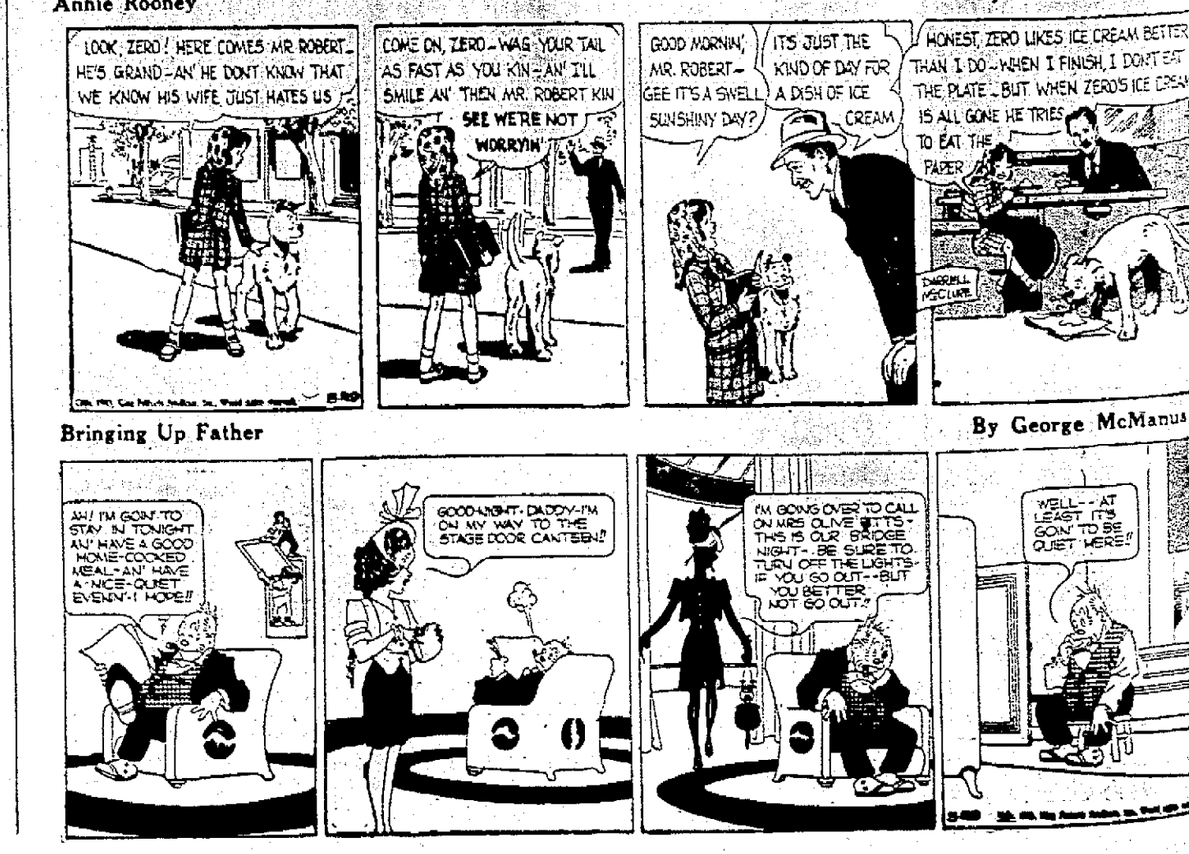
Annie Rooney By Darrell McClure



LOOK, ZERO! HERE COMES MR. ROBERT— HE'S GRAND—AN' HE DON'T KNOW THAT WE KNOW HIS WIFE JUST HATES US
COME ON, ZERO—WAG YOUR TAIL AS FAST AS YOU KIN—AN' I'LL SMILE AN' THEN MR. ROBERT KIN SEE WE'RE NOT WORRYIN'
GOOD MORNIN', MR. ROBERT— GEE IT'S A SWELL SUNSHINY DAY?
IT'S JUST THE KIND OF DAY FOR A DISH OF ICE CREAM
HONEST, ZERO LIKES ICE CREAM BETTER THAN I DO—WHEN I FINISH, I DON'T EAT THE PLATE—BUT WHEN ZERO'S ICE CREAM IS ALL GONE HE TRIES TO EAT THE PAPER

Bringing Up Father By George McManus

AH! I'M GOIN' TO STAY IN TONIGHT AN' HAVE A GOOD HOME-COOKED MEAL—AN' HAVE A NICE—QUIET EVENIN'—I HOPE!!
GOOD-NIGHT, DADDY—I'M ON MY WAY TO THE STAGE DOOR CANTEEN!!
I'M GOING OVER TO CALL ON MRS OLIVE— IT'S THIS IS OUR BRIDGE NIGHT—BE SURE TO TURN OFF THE LIGHTS IF YOU GO OUT—BUT YOU BETTER NOT GO OUT.
WELL—AT LEAST IT'S GOIN' TO BE QUIET HERE!!
